AS the Public is ever favourable to Works of this Nature, I shall make no Apology for the present Undertaking. But to satisfy my Readers what Pains I have been at not to impose upon them, and what Opportunities I have had of being informed, I beg leave to present them with a short Account of the following Sheets.

The Abstract of the Moghol History is extracted from the 6th Vol. of Tarîkh Rozit al Şuffa, Vakeât Babri, Maçır Jehanguîry, Padshanama, and Tarîkh Alumguîri, &c. A particular Account of which will be found in the Catalogue of Manuscripts at the End of the Book. As I have so large and choice a Collection

iv      The P R E F A C E.

Collection of Eastern Histories for that Purpose, the Authenticness of it will not be disputed.

As to that Part which gives an Account of the State of Affairs in the Moghol Empire before the Persian Invasion, with the Springs that effected the same, I have translated it from a Persian Manuscript sent to Dr. Mezd, by Humfries Cole Esq; Chief of the English Factory at Patna in the East-Indies. That the Facts therein are true, I am well assured; having myself lived in India above Ten Years, the last Three of which, I held a constant Correspondence with some Persians and Moghols there, and that frequently on the Subject of Nadir Shah's Expedition.

*The Account of Nadir Shah's first Exploits
I have been favoured with from a Gentleman now in England, who resided several Years in Persia, speaks that Language, and has been frequently in Company with that Conqueror.*

*The Journal of his Transactions in India, with the Letters and Cession of the Provinces, were transmitted from Dehli, by the Secretary of Sirbullind Khan (whom Nadir Shah had appointed to be one of the Commissioners for levying the Contributions) to Mirza Moghol, Son to Ali Mahommed Khan at Ahmedabad, who being my intimate Friend, gave it to me.

I have been as full in the Notes as possible, and explained whatever Terms I thought required it: Several proper Names and Words I have expressed in the Original Characters, which I thought would be entertaining to those who know any Thing of the Arabic or Persic, and not disagreeable even to those who do not, as they are immediately after set down in Roman Characters, with a proper Explanation. As several of those Terms have occurred more than once, I have annexed an Index of them, referring to the Page in which they are particularly explained.

In the Abstract of the Moghol History, I have reduced the Dates of the Hegira to the Year of our Lord, but in the remaining Part I have kept the Original Dates, and put ours in the Notes.

The learned Reader will please to observe, that in two or three Persic Words, I have been obliged to make use of the Letter B. instead of P. there being no such Letter in the Arabic Types, which I have been favoured with by the Society for propagating Christian Knowledge,

The Oriental Manuscripts, of which I have annexed a Catalogue at the End of these Sheets, have been collected from the Year 1730 to 1740, and purchased with no small Labour and Expence, at Surat, Cambay, and Ahraerabad in the East-Indies; excepting a few which I bought at Mocha in Arabia, from some Persians who passed that Way on their Pilgrimage to Mecca.

The first Master under whom I studied the Persic, was a Parsi, (or one of the Race of the ancient Persians) now at Surat. The second was a Mullah of one of the Mosques there, whose Name is Fakhr o'din. When I was at Cambay, I studied under Shékh Mahomed Morad, a Man famous in those Parts for his Knowledge of the Mahomedan Civil and Ecclesiastical Laws. During my Stay in that Place, I employed three Hours each Day with one Srî Nat Veaz, a learned Brahmin, whom I allowed a Salary on that Account; it was by his Means I procured my Sanskerrit Manuscripts, which (I believe) is the first Collection of that Kind ever brought into Europe.

A SHORT HISTORY OF THE INDOSTAN Emperors of the Moghul Race, beginning with TEMUR.

TEMUR, * the Son of Emir Targhai Khan and Takina Khatun, was born on the 6th of April, 1336. during the Government of Kazan Khan, in the City of Keish, (commonly call'd Shehrsobz, or the Green City)

* تیمور Timur is known in Europe by the Name of Tamerlane, a Corruption of تیمور لنك Timur Lung, which signifies Lame Timur, an Appellative seldom or never given him by the Eastern Historians. His Name and Titles at Length are قطب الدنیا و الادین امیر تیمور کورکان صاحب قران Koteb al Dunia v'al di Emir Temur Gourgan Sahib e Kiran, which is to say.

From which Time until his Death, which was Thirty-five Years Eleven Months and Five Days, he subdued the better Part of the Earth, and obtain'd Victories that might eclipse the Glory of all the Exploits before his Time. Temur signifies hardy, and strong, being deriv'd from the Tartar Word تمير Temir, Iron, which the modern Turks by Corruption write دمیر Demir.

+ The Stages, which in Tartary and Persia they call جانه Manzel, are from 25 to 30 English Miles.

† The Lunar Year they reckon 354 Days, 22 Gurris, 1 Pull. The Solar Year they reckon 365 Days, 15 Gurris 30 Pulls, 22½ Peels ; 60 Peels making 1 Pull, 60 Pulls 1 Gurri, and 60 Gurris 1 Day. This is according to the Bramim's or Indian Priest's Calculation, and what the Moghols and other Mahomedans in India chiefly go by.

In the Year 1398, he set out on his Expedition to India; and on the 16th of December the same Year, he took the Capital Debli, having then an Army of near 100,000 Horse. But finding a general Conquest of India would be attended with much Difficulty, and the keeping it afterwards impracticable, he bent his Thoughts on an Expedition against the Turks; and Three Years Eight Months after the Taking of Debli, in the latter End of 1401, with an Army of near 200,000 Horse he set out against Eildirm || Baiazed, the Son of Sultan Morad Khan (corruptly call'd Amurath;) and on the 18th of July, 1402, on the Plains of Angoria in Galatia, defeated him and his numerous Army. Son to Zebîr o'dîn Mahomed Babr, was born in the Castle of Cabul, on the 4th of March, 1508, and on the 28th of December, 1530, sat on the Throne at Agra.

In November, 1534, he set out to conquer Malva and Guzerat. Sultan Bahadr, who had engaged with him, and was defeated, fled to Mundou; and being pursued, went from thence to Chanpanere; from Chanpanere to Canbaet (or Cambay); and from Canbaet to Diu. Hemaiun after staying some Time at Canbaet, return'd.

Having, in the Year 1535, subdued Malva and Guzerat, in 1538 he conquer'd Bengal; but in 1540, being forsaken by his good

The Particulars of which, with his Reception in Perſia, and the Assistance given him by Shah Thomas, Son to Shah Ismael, is fully fet forth in Akbarnama †, Padshabnama, Tebcat Akbarshabi, Tarikh-al-Arai, and Montekheb al-Tuarikh Bedāvuni, being too prolix to insert here. At laſt, on the 1ſt of September, 1545, he took Kandahar from Mirza Afkeri, who govern'd it as Mirza Camran's Deputy; and on the 16th of November, 1545, he took Cabul from Mirza Camran; and in the Spring 1546, conquered Biddukhshan from Mirza Suliman, who had revolted and taken the Government thereof into his own Hands. In the Beginning of December, 1554, he set out from Cabul for Hindostan; and on the 22d of February, 1555, came to Lahor. On the 27th of May, the same Year, he came to Serhind; and on the 20th of June, encounter'd and defeated Secandir Sout. This October, 1542 ; and on the 12th of February, 1556, being then Thirteen Solar Years and Four Months old, was proclaimed Emperor at Calanore in the Province of Labor. He was reckon'd a great and good Prince, and was very fortunate, having, in his Reign, made several Conquests, and reduced almost all India to Obedience. The Particulars of which are to be seen in Akbarnama, a History compos'd by his Secretary and Vizir Abul Fazl*, and in Tebcat Akbar Shabi, and Montekheb Tuarikh Bedauvni. As he was professedly fixed to no Religion himself, so he was a Persecutor of none. In 1582 he wrote a Letter to the King of Portugal, desiring he would send to him a Translation of the Scriptures into Arabic or Persian, and at the same * ابو الفضل Abul Fazl was the Title given to this Great Man, and signifies, the Father of Excellence. His Writings testify him to be the most learned, and the best Writer then in the East. He was murder'd by Order of سلطان سلیمان Sultan Selim, on Suspicion of being the Occasion of a Misunderstanding that was between him and the Emperor his Father. Akbar greatly lamented his Death, and so did all who had any Regard for Letters; he having left several Things unfinish'd. As I thought the Letter would not be disagreeable to some of the Readers, I have inserted a Translation of it, in which I have kept as close to the Original as possible.

Gathering together what Treasure he could, and having broke to Pieces the famous Throne, (which costt Shah Jahan nine Crores § of Rupees) in order to pay his Soldiers, he soon compleat-ed an Army of 50,000 Horse, and marched out to engage Mahomed Shah, who had encamp'd at Serkad, which is Twelve Coss from Mhetra.

Abdallah Khan being brought before him, the Emperor said to him, ‘ Traitor, see what thou hast done.’ To which he answered, ‘ I took you out of a Prison, and gave you an Empire. My Brother being murdered by your Order, as I was at the Head of an Army, Self-preservation directed me to make use of it ; Providence delivered you the Victory, use it as you think proper, by treating this Clay as your Reward or Interest may prompt you.’ Then the Emperor said to him, ‘ What Harm had Furrukhsir done to you?’ To which he answered : ‘ He grew jealous of mine and my Brother’s Power, and as it was inconsistent with our Interest to resign it into his Hands, we thought it dangerous to lose any Time in removing him. † In ancient Times, none but the Wives of the Brahmins (or Indian Priests) had the Privilege of burning themselves with their deceased Husbands : But since the Government fell into the Hands of the Rajpouts, 'tis customary, when any of their Princes die, for one or more of his Wives to be burnt with him. There is no Compulsion to this Sacrifice, as some People wrongly imagine ; 'tis entirely of their own accord, and often they are dissuaded from it. Sometimes indeed, when a vain-glorious Passion prevails over natural Affection, the Widow's Relations would gladly have her burn, as it raises the Character of their Family, by making it remarkable for virtuous and loving Women. Yet, according to their Religion, 'tis more meritorious to behave chastly and decently in their Widowhood, unt l Death, than burning ; because one is but a short Pain, and the other a State of Trial. agreed to pay the Quarter Part, and returned Home. Notwithstanding this Agreement, and the Money being paid, the Maharattas did not spare those Places from being plundered, but even resolved to march as far as Agra to receive the Quarter Part for Debli. The aforesaid Officers set out again, and came to the City of Agra: A little before their Arrival, the Maharattas had crossed the River Jumna, with an Intent to march into Audih, the Province governed by Saadit Khan, who having Notice of their Design, march'd against them with a strong Body, and after an obstinate Engagement defeated them, took two of their principal Officers, and killed 5000 of their Men. With the Remains of their Army they marched to Feridabad, which is Ten Coss from Debli. Upon which Khandoran and the Vizir, being joined by Saadit Khan, went in pursuit of them: The Maharattas had left that Place Three Hours before the Omras Arrival, and marched towards Kalka, near Debli; which being a Place of Worship for that Day, the greatest Part of the Inhabitants had assembled there: They robb'd them of all they had, but sparcd their Lives; and knowing the City

The City had but few Forces therein, they intended to plunder it; of which the Emperor being informed, he ordered Emir Khan and Hoffan Khan, with all the Companies belonging to the Train of Artillery, to go and oppose them. They accordingly marched out, and after an Engagement of a few Hours, Hoffan Khan was killed, and Emir Khan, with the rest of his Army, almost routed, and the Maharattas on the Point of entering the City, when the Vizir, who had outmarched the other two Omras, came to his Assistance; the Enemy was soon defeated, and put to Flight: The Vizir pursued them to Allaverdi Khan's Serai, † which is Seven Cos from Debli, where coming up with them, and having no Inclination to fight, he secretly made up Matters: Upon which they marched back to Deccan. Saadit Khan being somewhat puffed up with his own good Services, and incensed at this shameful Compromise with the Ganims, marched towards his own Province, without waiting on his Majesty ; but the other Omras entered the City, and paid their Respects to him.

The Emperor was again inclined to send for Nizam al Muhuck, thinking that while he continued in Deccan he should be always in Fear of (or actually disturbed by) these Excursions of the Maharattas. Mebr Parvir, his Grandmother, who had great Interest with Nizam, at his Request, wrote him a Letter, full of Assurances that he should have the entire Management of Affairs at Court, provided he came without Delay. He complied with her Request, but met with a worse Treatment than formerly. The Omras not only disregarded him, but took all Opportunities of affronting him, especially Khandoran and his Creatures, who when he came to pay his Respects at Court, used to ridicule him, saying to each other, Observe how the Deccan Monkey dances. This Usage having wrought him up to the highest Pitch of Resentment, he was resolved to revenge himself by distressing the Empire, and destroying Khandoran and his Creatures. He imparted his Design to the Vizir, Kummir o'din Khan, imagining he would join with him.

him. But notwithstanding the Alliance between them (Nizam's Son being married to ~~the Vizir's Daughter~~, and the Vizir's Son to Nizam's Daughter) he could not engage him to join in any Plot detrimental to the public Interest; on the contrary, he used his Endeavours to dissuade him therefrom, by representing to him the Infamy of sacrificing his Country to private Resentment. When Nizam perceived he would not come into his Measures, he applied himself to Saadit Khan, the Soubahdar of Audib, who then had a great Body of Men, was an Officer of Experience, and had lately raised his Reputation by his Action with the Maharattas; and, what was still more to the Purpose, had since that Time stood ill-affected towards the Emperor and Khandoran. Having entered into an Agreement, it was resolved that Nadir Shah, Ruler of Perſia, who then was besieging Kandabar, should be the Instrument to distress the Emperor, and remove Khandoran from amongst them.

But before I relate the treacherous Correspondence carried on between Nizam, Saadit Khan, and Nadir Shah, with the Invitation they they gave him to march towards Hindostan, which was the principal Motive that encouraged him to undertake that Expedition, I shall give a brief Account of the Life and Actions of this Famous Conqueror, who of late has made so much Noise in the World, which I had from a Gentleman who knew him personally, and was in Persia during the Time of the Great Revolution which happened there; that is, from the Time the Afghans invaded Persia, and Mahmud Khan, the Son of Mîr Vaez, took the Capital thereof Isfahan, making Shah Sultan Hossein Prisoner, with all his Sons, which were Twenty-three, excepting Thamas Mirza (afterwards Shah Thamas, who made his Escape during the Siege) until Nadir Shah set out for Kandahar to reduce to Obedience Hossein Khan, a Brother of the said Mahmud Khan.

NADIR SHAH.

NADIR SHAH †, known in Europe by the Name of Kuli Khan, was born at Calot in the Province of Khorasan ||. His Father was Chief

‡ His first Name was نادر قلی Nadir Kuli, which signifies, God's Slave, or literally, the Slave of the Wonderful. It is composed of قادر Nadir, wonderful, which, with the Mahomedans, is one of God's Attributes, and قلی Kuli, which, in the Turkish Language, signifies Slave. In this Manner the Arabs, and other Mahomedans, compose most of their proper Names, by prefixing the Word عبد Abd, Slave, to God's Name, or any of his Attributes, thus: عبد الله Abdullah, the Slave of God, عبد الرحمن Abd o' Rahman, the Slave of the Merciful, &c.

Chief of a Clan of the Affbar, * Tribe and Governor of a Fortress ~~besetting~~ at that Place, wherein a sufficient Guard was kept to prevent the Ousbeg Tartars from making Incursions into Khorasan. It commanded one of the Passes, and was so situated by Nature that a Handful of Men might easily defend it against a numerous Army. The Father of Nadir Kuli (for that was his first Name) dying during his Minority, his Uncle took the Command of that Fortress, which had been Hereditary in the Family, for many Years, under Pretence of keeping it until Nadir Kuli was of Age; but when he was grown up, the Uncle pretended he was still too young to take such a Charge; and insinuated to the Clan, he was a Youth of a fierce and tyrannical Disposition, not fit to command them, unless, instead

The Persians generally pronounce it Khorfun, making an h, before an h, or an h, sounding like an h, u, which, they think, gives the Words a sweeter and softer Sound. But in Tartary, and all over the Moghol's Empire, the Words are pronounced as they are wrote.

of mild Treatment they chose to be sway'd with a Rod of Iron. The Affshars being well satisfied with the Uncle, desired him to continue their Chief, declaring that as they already had sufficient Experience of his Capacity and Humanity, they would not run any Risque by submitting to his Nephew. Nadir Kuli being thus thrust out of his Right by the Cunning of his Uncle, and being of too great a Spirit to live in a State of Subserviency among his Relations, went to Musbad*, a City famous for the Sepulchre of Imam Ali Reza, and there entered into the Beglerbeg's † Service, as one of the under Masters of Ceremonies; in which Office he behaved so well, that the Prince soon gave him the Command of a Troop of Horse. In the frequent Skirmishes he had with the Tartars he gave such Proofs of his Conduct and Courage, that in a few Years he was made Mim Bashi, or Commander of 1000 Horse, * Musbad is a City in Khorasan, which, since Shah Abas's Intention of making it a Place of Pilgrimage, has been of more Note than Herat, the ancient Capital thereof.

† Beglerbeg is a Title signifying, in the Turkish Language, Lord of Lord..

in which Station he continued till he was about thirty two Years of Age, behaving on all Occasions with the greatest Gallantry and Resolution. He was esteemed and respected by those whom he chose to be familiar with ; but others who were not so intimate with him, and to whom he behaved with Reserve, made little Account of him. He so well disguised his Ambition, that, altho' determined to push his Fortune to the utmost, when a proper Opportunity should offer, he took the greatest Care to smother whatever might give the least Jealousy or Offence to his Superiors, seeming perfectly happy in the Station he had obtained, until the Year 1720. when the Ousbeg Tartars, by Surprise, entered Khorasan with a Body of 12000 Horse, and began to commit Hostilities. The Beglerbeg not having above 4000 Horse, and 2000 Foot in Readiness to march against them, called a Council of his Officers, and told them if an immediate Stop was not put to the Progress of the Tartars, they would lay waste and plunder the whole Province, and, according to their Custom, carry off Man, Woman, and Child, with every Thing of Value they could lay their Hands on;

on; in Consequence of which he must lose his Head. The General Officers declared the Force his Highness could then muster was not near sufficient to encounter the Enemy with any Probability of Success, and that the King would blame him should he attempt it, and thereby only throw away the Lives of so many brave Men. The Beglerbeg perceiving their timorous Disposition, declared he would put himself at the Head of what Troops he had, and try his Fortune, it being better to run any Hazard than sit down tamely, and be idle Spectators, while the Tartars ravaged the Country, and carried away the Inhabitants to a perpetual Slavery. Nadir Kuli, who was present at this Council, (but whose Station did not entitle him to speak until the Opinion of those of the same Rank was asked) got up, and desired that he might be indulged to offer something on this Occasion: Which being granted, he said, It was then no Time to deliberate; that the Enemy were advancing towards them, and in a few Days would force the Generals to do what what at present they seem'd to have no Inclination to; that he could not enough commend the brave Resolution of the Prince in offering to go in Person, and give them Battle, tho', at the same Time, there was no Necessity for His Highness to run so great a Risque, since if any Accident happened to him the whole Province would be lost; that it would be more advisable to remain in the City Mushad to take Care thereof with what Forces he could gather from the adjacent Parts, and let the Army set out immediately, in order to give the Enemy Battle, or to secure some Defiles and narrow Passes to prevent the Tartars advancing until his Highness could send Succours: That for his Part, he assured him he was, by Experience, so well satisfied of the Bravery of the Troops they then had, that if he would honour him with the Command of this Expedition, he was so well assured of Success, that in Case he miscarried he was willing to forfeit his Head. The Prince was so pleased with an Offer of this Kind, that he did not wait for any of the Generals Opinions; but immediately told him, You have, in your present Station, when Occasion offered, given such Proofs of your Conduct and personal Valour, as leaves me no Room to doubt of your future Behaviour; I do therefore therefore give you the Title of General, with the Command of all the Troops now here, and order you to march with them, as soon as possible, against the Tartars, and either give them Battle, or take such Measures as may seem to you most proper, in order to put a Check to their Progress. Accordingly a Commission pro tempore was prepared and signed for Nadir Kuli to command in this Expedition as General, and the Prince assured him, if he succeeded, he would use all his Interest at Court to get him confirmed. Altho' the Common-Soldiers were well satisfied to have Nadir Kuli to command them, yet all the General Officers, and most of the Mim Bafhis, his Seniors, refused to act under him, which the Prince being informed of, desired they would stay with him, and that others, whom Nadir Kuli appointed, should act in their Stead. Accordingly several Officers were promoted in order to supply the Places of those who staid; and the Troops set out with Nadir Kuli at their Head, with the same Resolution that he did, to conquer or die. The Tartar General, who lay about four Days Journey from Musbad, hearing the Perfians were in quest of them, called called together all his Forces, who were out a marrauding in different Parts. Nadir, who bent his March directly towards him, on his Arrival, found the Tartar at the Head of his Troops ready to give him Battle; upon which he drew up his little Army on an Eminence, and told them, that half the Tartars at least were a foraging, and left to guard the Captives and Plunder; that he was assured they had not above 6 or 7000 Men, tho' they were drawn up loose in order to make the greater Show; and that he should not doubt of Victory had they been twice as numerous, from the Experience he often had of their Courage on other Occasions, which he was assured they would then exert to the utmost, as thereon entirely depended the Lives, Liberties, and Estates of their Countrymen. The Tartars charged with their usual Fury, which the Perfians, animated by the Example of their young Leader, sustained with all the Intrepidity imaginable. Both Parties being brave and equally resolute, a bloody and obstinate Action ensued, in which the Victory for a long Time seemed doubtful: At last Nadir's Fortune prevailed; for having slain the General with his own Hand,

The Tartars were immediately put to Flight, the Perfians pursuing and slaughtering them for several Miles. In this Battle upwards of 6000 Tartars were killed, and of the Remainder not half returned to their own Country, being either killed or taken Prisoners by the Peasants.

This Victory gained Nadir Kuli immortal Honour ; and the Beglerbeg assured him, on his Arrival at Musbad, that he had wrote to the King to make him General under him, that is, Lieutenant General of Khorasan. But Shah Sultan Hossein, who was then King of Perfia, being a weak and indolent Prince, never regarded the Services Nadir had done him, but appointed in that very Post, which he ought to have, a young Nobleman who had never seen any Action. This Affair was managed by the great Interest the other General Officers had at Court, who (tho' afraid to undertake it themselves) were highly chagrin'd at Nadir Kuli's having had the Command of the Tartar Expedition : The King's Weakness giving them a fair Opportunity of indulging their Resentment, by procuring the Disgrace of this brave Man, who had no Friends at Court to sollicit for him.

Being

Being highly incensed at this Treatment, he waited on the Prince, and told him, he had depended on his Promise to no Purpose, for instead of being confirmed in his Post, he was degraded and disgraced for his good Services, and a young Fellow appointed to Command the Army, who was only fit to be shut up in a Seraglio with Women; that he observed, he was a Person nearly related to his Highness, whence he concluded he was raised to that Station by the very Interest promised him: The Prince assured him of the contrary, and as he had endeavoured to serve him, was highly displeased at his daring to tax him with a Breach of Promise. Nadir, by insisting on what he had said, and dropping some other unguarded Expressions, so far trespassed on the Prince's good Nature, that he ordered him to be bastinadoed on the Soles of the Feet, till his Toe-Nails dropt off, and turned him out of the Service. The Reader must not be surprized at this Sort of Punishment to a Field Officer, for it is frequently inflicted on those in the highest Stations, if they incur the King's Displeasure, and all the Nobility are liable to undergo it, if they disobey the Commands

of their Superiors in a Post subordinate to them. Nadir was now set adrift, and having no Friends at Court, had no Hopes of being re-instated; this made him turn his Thoughts on retiring to the Place of his Nativity, and endeavour to recover his paternal Inheritance.
On his Arrival there, his Uncle received him very kindly, and he lived with him and his other Relations some Time; but on his endeavouring to recover the Command of the Tribe, by first insinuating privately, and then insisting upon it that it was his Right, his Uncle let him know he would not resign
it, and treated him in a most contemptuous and slighting Manner. His other Relations did the same, which was Usage Nadir's high Spirit could not bear, notwithstanding the State of Poverty he was reduced to, which was so very hard, that he was forced to borrow small Matters of any that would lend him, to procure the common Necessaries of Life. This was enough to beget desperate Resolutions in a Man who had deserved great Things from his Prince and Country, for the good Services he had done them; instead of which, as I have already observed, he was degraded and punished: And when he fled into the Army of his Relations for Relief, and claim'd his Birth-right, found that withheld from him by his Uncle; and all those who, by Ties of Blood, ought ~~to~~ have been his Friends, turned his Enemies, for no other Reason that I could ever learn, but that they found him a bold enterprising Man, and superior to themselves in Point of Genius and Every other Respect. Nadir, in this melancholy Situation, determined to get that by Force, which he could not obtain by any other Method; and having associated with a Couple of stout Fellows of desperate Fortune, went upon the Highway, and robb'd a small Caravan of Three or Four Mules laden with Merchandize, and found Means to dispose of them, the Produce of which (setting aside what they wanted for present Expences) he laid out in Arms and Ammunition, and enlisted privately in his Gang all the desperate Fellows he could pick up. He set out a second Time with about 20 or 25, and robb'd a large Caravan of 30 Mules and Camels, laden with Merchandize and Provisions, which he carried to the Mountains, where Persons came secretly to him with Arms, &c. and exchang'd them for Goods, much to their Advantage.

Advantage. In this Manner he frequently robb'd, traded, and enlisted fresh Men into his Gang, most of whom were Soldiers who had formerly serv'd under him, until he had got near 500 stout Fellows well mounted, with which Force he kept the Country in awe, and laid them under a Contribution, which they would not comply with, till he had first threaten'd, and afterwards performed, his Resolution of carrying away their Cattle, and plundering and burning their Houses. But it will be proper here to take Notice, that he could not have reigned long in this Manner, but would have been pursued and overpowered by the King's Forces, if the Empire had not been involved in War. The Afghans, under Mir Vaez's Son, had taken Isfahan, and reduced the South-East Parts of Perſia to their Obedience; the Turks had entered the Western Parts, and taken most of them; and the Muscovites had taken Possession of Gilan (the ancient Hyrcania) and other Places bordering on the Caspian Sea; so that Shah Thamas having but two or three Provinces left, which were surrounded by Enemies on all Sides, he could not spare any Forces to reduce Nadir Kuli; the Country People were afraid to attack him, so that he lived on them, and exacted what he thought proper for the Support of himself and his Followers. At this Time, one Sef o'din Beg, a General in Sulab Tibars Army, and Chief of a great Tribe, called the Beyots, having offended the King, his Majesty was determined to take away his Life, which Sef o'din Beg being privately informed of, he fled from the Camp in the Night with 1500 of his own Men, and not knowing where to take Sanctuary, he went to Nader Kuh, and joined him. By this Addition to his Force, he had now got upward of 2000 Men, and was become very formidable and expensive to the Neighbourhood. Nadir's Uncle began to dread the Strength of his Nephew, who not being above 100 Miles off, might come and attack him whenever he pleased: He therefore wrote him a Letter, wherein he assured him, he was of Opinion, that if he would submit, and go into the King's Service, his Majesty would grant Pardon to him and all his People. Nadir seemed very well pleased with this Proposal and wrote his Uncle, that if he could procure the Pardon he mentioned, he should be to accept of it. Accordingly his Uncle sent a Petition to Shah Thamas, in behalf of his Nephew. His Majesty at first seemed not inclined to pardon a Man who had been guilty of such notorious Crimes; but being told the ill Treatment he had formerly met with, forced him to take such Measures in order to support himself, that he was a gallant Officer, and that his Troops might be of great Service to his Majesty, who was in want of such Men, the King comply'd, and sent a free Pardon signed to his Uncle, which he immediately forwarded to Nadir Kuli, who, upon the Receipt thereof, set out with Sef o'din Beg, and 100 chosen Men for Calot. On his Arrival there, his Uncle received him very kindly. Next Day he made a grand Entertainment for him and his Followers, which he intended to have continued for three Days, far from apprehending any Treachery from his Nephew, who now meditated Revenge for the Injury done him in withholding his Right, and slighting him when reduced to the greatest Necessity. He had concerted with his Followers how to put it in Execution before he left the Mountains, and had ordered 500 more of his Men to set out the next Day after ter him, and to lay concealed near the Castle of Cahst (which they might easily do, it being a mountainous Place.) Accordingly having that very Night made proper Preparations, about two in the Morning, at a Signal given, those within fell on the Sentries, killed some, and seized the rest, whilst Nadir Khan went to his Uncle's Chamber, whom having killed, he took the Keys of the Castle, and opened the Gates, in order to let in the 500 Men, who were ready at his Signal. His Uncle's Men, who were about 160, besides the Sentries, had taken the Alarm; but Nadir Khan's People having secured the Doors of the Barracks where they lay, they could make no Resistance, so that they surrendered; and, being disarm'd, were set at Liberty the next Morning: there was not much Blood shed on this Occasion, not above fifteen or twenty being killed in all. Nadir Khan immediately dispatched Messengers to those remaining in the Mountains, who came to him in a few Days. This happened about the Year 1726-7, upwards of six Years after he had been turned out of the King's Service in Muskad, as before-mentioned.

Nadir Khan, by this Action, not at all to his Credit, had gratified his Revenge on his Uncle, Uncle, and had all his Relations (who lived mostly in the Town, and the adjacent Villages near Calot) in his Power ; but he shewed no Resentment to any of them : On the contrary, he treated them with Civility and Respect ; several of them entered voluntarily into his Service, and are now with him in great Posts. He continued in this Place for some Months ruling in an absolute Manner, and raising Contributions, for fifty Miles round, to what Amount he pleased. Shah Thamas was fully apprized of all that Nadir had done, and was highly displeased at the ill Use he made of the Pardon sent him, which was to destroy his Uncle, and get Possession of a strong Place, whence nothing but a great Force could dislodge him ; but as his Affairs were in a declining Condition, every Day seeming to threaten his Ruin more and more, being hemm'd in by the Turks on one Side, and the Afghans on the other, he judged it better to make use of the Rebel Nadir's Assistance, than to weaken his own Force by attempting to destroy him. He therefore let him know, if he would submit and come to him, he should be graciously received, and admitted into the Service as a

Mim Ba'n, and that Nadir Beg shoul'd likew<sup>e</sup> be p<sup>r</sup>ised, & a present made in the same Station. He accepted this Offer, & is having left one of his own Officers, 500 of his Men, to command the Castle, reset out with the rest, and waited upon the King, who at first rebuked him for what he had done, but told him and his People, that he had forgiven them, and did not doubt their future Behaviour would make Am<sup>m</sup>ends for their past Offences. Nadir excused himself as well as he could, by telling the King the ill Treatment he had met with from the Prince of Klereen, in being turned out of the Service at a Time when he ought to have been rewarded for his successful Exped<sup>i</sup>tion against the Tartars; and that the injurious Usage he received from his Uncle and P<sup>re</sup>- tions had forced him into the Measur<sup>e</sup>. He had taken to support himself, but as his Master had now generously pardoned him, he had endeavour to render himself deserving of the Clemency which had been shewn him.

As he had now frequent Occasions, he distinguished himself by his Courage and Conduct, and was the Admiration of the King and the whole Army. The Turks (who before a Number of

Nadir Kuli's coming into Shah Tahmas's Army, were always victorious, and seem'd determined to extirpate the Persian Race, and divide the Empire between the Afghans and themselves, with whom they had made Peace, and entered into an Alliance) were now frequently repulsed with Loss, tho' their Numbers were vastly superior to the Persians; and in all those Actions and Skirmishes, Nadir, tho' he had but an inferior Command, yet he shared the most Honour; till at length the King made him a Lieutenant-General, having removed two of his principal Officers to make Way for him. As Nadir had, by his Station, frequent Opportunities of waiting on the King, he soon insinuated himself into his Favour. He had but one Rival to deal with, who was of any Consequence, namely, Fatteh Allah Khan Kajar, with whom, in Appearance, he kept a strict Friendship; but the very Moment the King (being set on by his Creatures) had called that General to an Account for his Management, in Regard to the Army, Nadir Kuli assured His Majesty he had been a long Time sensible of the Abuses committed, and unless there was a Reformation in the Manner of paying and disciplining the Army, the Troops would desert ; that they already began to murmur at not receiving their Pay regularly, and complained of the exorbitant Deductions made out of it for Cloaths, &c. The King, on hearing this, was highly incensed against the General, and declared, if what was alledged against him was true, he would order his Head to be cut off. He having nothing to say in his own Justification, but pleading it as a Custom, and what his Predecessors had always done, His Majesty ordered him to be executed on the Spot, and appointed Nadir Kuli General, who readily accepted of it, without the Formality of desiring to be excused on Account of his Inability to acquit himself as he ought in such a Post. This was in the Year 1727-8, and not above one Year since he was pardoned, and taken into the King's Service. Nadir having obtained that high Station, began to display Talents vastly superior to what he had discovered hitherto, and the King had so great a Dependance on his Management, that he seldom or never interfered in any Thing relating to the Military. Nadir, being sensible of the Trust reposed in him, was resolv'd to improve prove it to his own Advantage, by removing those in the Army whom he had Reason to believe were not attached to him, and putting in those who were. He gain'd the Affection of the Common-Soldiers, by paying them with his own Hand the Moment he received the Money, and letting them have Cloaths at the first Cost. Finding himself in this happy Situation, he wish'd for nothing more than Action, but his Forces (being no more than 15 or 20000) were not sufficient to act offensively against the Turks: However, he annoyed them so much by Means of flying Parties, that they were glad to sit still in their Quarters; they sent to acquaint Shah Thamas, that if he would relinquish to them the Right of those Places they had already in Possession, they would make Peace with him, and leave him to recover the rest of his Dominions from the Afghans. Shah Thamas let them know he would consider of it, and desired a Truce till he could get an Answer from the Grand Signior to some Proposals he had to make him; to which the Turks agreed, promising to commit no Hostilities until they received Orders from the Port, and so their Confines were were fixed to Hamadan on one Side, and Tabriz and Ardebil on the other. Shah Thamas sent a Messenger to Constantinople with Offers of an Accommodation, but on Terms which he knew would not be granted; he gave private Orders to the said Messenger to pretend Sicknes on the Road, and to delay his getting thither as soon as possible, so as not to give the Turks any Cause of Suspicion. Shah Thamas's Design was only to gain Time that he might go and subdue Meluck Mahmud, Governor of Mushad, who had rebelled during the late Revolution, and set up as King. Having, thro' the Bravery of his General Nadir, taken the said Governor Prisoner, and seized his Effects, he set out with 12000 Horse to chastise the Abdollees, a Tribe of Afghans, who had taken Possession of Herat in Shah Sultan Hossein's Time, and were now preparing a grand Army to invade Khorajan, and lay Seige to Mushad. The Abdollee Afghans met him about three Days Journey from Herat, with an Army of near 30000 Horse. As they were reckoned better Soldiers than the Kandahar Afghans, who had taken Isfahan, the King seem'd to dread the Event of the Battle; but Nadir, whose Courage was invincible, Invincible, assured the King he did not doubt of Success; that Victory depended more on Resolution and Conduct than on Numbers, and that he was satisfy'd his Majesty's Troops had both. Having drawn up his Army in order of Battle, he harangued them in the same Manner, telling them withal, that the Loss of that Battle would be the Ruin of Perſia, and that they and their Generations would be made Slaves for ever, if they did not conquer that Day; after which a general Shout was given. The Abdolle Aghans, who were drawn up at ſome Distance, hearing their Shout, returned it, and advanced with great Fury to charge the Perſians. Nadir kept his Men close, and being poſted upon a riſing Ground, he played upon them with ſome ſmall Field-pieces, which did great Execution, not ſuffering any of his People to diſcharge their Small-Arms until the Enemy was within thirty or forty Yards, when they made a general Fire, which made ſuch Havoc among the Abdollees, that they were obliged to retire, and give the Perſians Time to load again. In ſhort, after ſeveral deſperate Attacks, which the Perſians ſustained with an uncommon Valour, a general Engagement

Engagement ensued, in which Nadir behaved with a most surprising Conduct; for, tho' his Personal Bravery naturally carried him too far, his Vigilance was such, that he always sent timely Assistance wherever it was required; at last, the Abdeslees were entirely routed, 5000 were taken Prisoners, and near 15000 killed and wounded. The Loss on the Perians Side amounted to no more than 1500. After this he marched to Herat, and besieged it for some Months, until the Enemy submitted, and had agreed to pay down a certain Sum, and give an annual Tribute on Condition they might have a Governor appointed by the King out of their own Tribe; which being granted, they swore Obedience to Shah Thamas, by whom they were to be treated in future as natural Subjects. The King, who was in the Army, but did not command, set out for Muglad. Nadir Kuli, having Orders to follow him as soon as possible, arrived there in August, 1729. About this Time the King received News that Ajkruff, the Afgkan (who succeeded Mahrud, the Son of Mir Vaez, and was then in Possession of Isfakan) was preparing to come and attack him with a powerful Army.

Army. The said Ashruff, hearing of Nadir Kuli's Success, thought it dangerous to give such a Man Time to augment his Forces; he therefore determined to crush him in the Beginning: For which Purpose, having compleated an Army of 30000 Men, he set out from Isfahan in September, 1729, and march'd towards Khorasan. This News alarmed Shah Thamas, and likewise his General Nadir; but his Troops, being flush'd with their late Victory, seem'd eager to be led against the Enemy. He was glad to find them in this Disposition, especially as he had but little Hopes of raising any great Number of Recruits, few People caring to enlist, as they knew they were immediately to enter upon a desperate Action; however, he augmented his Army to near 16000 Men exclusive of the Troops left in Garrison: Having set out from Muslad, by slow Marches he came to a Place called Damgoon, where, posting himself advantageously, he waited the Enemy's Arrival. When Ashruff came there, finding Nadir Kuli so well situated, he was unwilling to attack him, but was over-ruled in Opinion by his Officers: They told him, that by his declining to come to Action, the the enemy would obtain a cheap Victory ; as the Country People (on hearing the Afghan) were afraid to encounter the Perians) would rebel, and stop all Provisions from coming to the Army. Afbruff then proposed to march directly to Mushad without attacking Nadir Kuli ; which being rejected, the Signal was given for Battle. The Event convinced the Afghan Officers of their Error ; for attacking them at that Disadvantage gave the Perians a compleat Victory. 'Tis true it cost them dear, having lost above 4000 Men. The Loss sustained by the Afghans was about 12000, among whom were some of their best Officers.

After this Defeat Afbruff retired towards Isfahan, having scarcely a third Part of the Troops he set out with, a great Number of his Men (especially the Perians he had taken into his Service) having deserted after the Battle.

Shab Thamas, who was present in this Action, and an Eye-witness to the Conduct and Valour of his General, told him he had nothing to present him, worthy his Acceptance, but his own Name, and ordered that, for the future, he should be called Thamas Kuli

NADIR SHAH. 97.

Kuli* with the Addition of Khan, which signifies Lord.

Thamas Kuli Khan, (for so we shall call him until he is elected King) having refreshed his Troops at Damgoun, marched towards Isfahan. The Afghans, on his Approach, quitted several of their Garrisons, and fled towards the Capital, and in some Places the Perians cut them off, declaring openly for Shah Thamas, and sending to Kuli Khan what Supplies of Men and Money they could furnish; so that, by the Time he arrived at Cashan, which is four Days Journey from Isfahan; his Army consisted of 40000 Horse and Foot. The Afghans laid in great Stores of Provisions, and seemed determined to defend themselves to the last Extremity; but their Leader Ashruff chose to try the Event of another Battle before he suffered himself to be besieged. Having brought together all the Forces he could muster, which amounted to no more than 30000, consisting of Afghans, Darguzzis, Hazarris, Perians, &c.

* Thamas Kuli, signifies Thamas's Slave. The greatest Honour a Persian King can confer on any Subject, is giving him Liberty to make use of his own Name, altho' it is only to signify, he is his Slave.

he marched out to a Place called Mourcha Khor, which is about thirty English Miles from the City, and encamped there, waiting Khuli Khan's Arrival, which not being so soon as he expected, he had sufficient Time to exercise his Cruelty on the Perians in and about Isfahan: At first, he ordered all the principal Men to be cut off, and afterwards all they could find in the Streets; so that, for the Space of twenty Days, there was not a Perian to be seen abroad, none appearing but Women, who came out to buy the common Necessaries of Life. At last, Kuli Khan arrived at Mourcha Khor, where, engaging the Afghans, he obtained a compleat Victory. Ashruff, having lost 7000 Men, retired to Isfahan, where, calling a Council, it was resolved, that all the Inhabitants should be slaughtered, and the Palace and other Houses set on Fire; which being done, they were to march off with all the Effects they could carry with them. Just as they were on the Point of executing this barbarous Resolution, those whom Ashruff had appointed to watch the Motions of Kuli Khan, sent to acquaint him, that the Perian Army was in full March towards the City. Upon which,

Ashruff

Ashruff ordered his Men to come to the Palace and load their Beasts with Money (of which there was a great Quantity) and then follow him, as they could only save themselves by Flight. This Order was executed with so much Dispatch, that before two o'Clock in the Afternoon there was scarce an Afghan to be seen in the City. The Persians, who before lay concealed, came out, and began to plunder all Houses without Distinction; even the Peasants from the Out-parts flocked in in great Numbers to have their Share of the Booty; but on the Arrival of 1500 of Thamas Kuli Khan's Troops, all the Rabble disappeared, and the Officers took Possession of the Palace, and placed Guards at the City Gates. The next Day being

November, 1730, he entered Isfahan with his whole Army, and continued there, cloathing his Men, and dividing among them the Plunder recovered from the Inhabitants. It was a Matter of Surprize to most People that he did not pursue the Afghans; but in a few Days afterwards it appeared he had some private Reasons for it: For, on Shab Thamas's Arrival (which was three Weeks afterwards) he declared that unless his Majesty would give him the Power of levying Money in all Parts for the Payment of the Army, he would decline the Command thereof, and return to his own Country, being well assured that the Persons who should be ordered to supply him would be negligent, and by that Means frustrate all his Designs. The King was averse to this Proposal, and had Thoughts of removing him, but could fix on no other who was fit to supply his Place; having sounded some of the principal Officers, he found them of Opinion, that it was better to comply with Kuli Khan's Humour for the present, and shew a proper Resentment of his Insolence when there was less Occasion for his Service; adding, that the Soldiers, at this Juncture, would be unwilling to serve under any other General. At last, His Majesty consented but with the greatest Reluctancy: For, in giving that Power, he (in Effect) parted with his Crown. He did not even stop here, but heaped more Honours upon him, appointing him Generalissimo and Beglerbeg of Khorasan, and giving him his Aunt in Marriage. After obtaining these Favours he seemed perfectly zealous for his Master's Service; and, in

in order to convince the World of his Severity, would set out with an Army in the Middle of Winter against the Afghans, who, finding the Perfians did not pursue them, when they quitted Isfahan, had taken up their Winter Quarters at Shiraz, and plundered and ravaged that Part of the Country in a barbarous Manner.

Kuli Khan, thro' the Severity of the Season, had lost upwards of 3000 Men; but, as his March was to the Southward, the Weather grew daily more favourable. Having arrived near Shiraz, Ashruff and his Afghans marched out with a Resolution once more to try their Fortune in Battle; they fought desperately for some Hours, but at last were put to Flight, having left a great Part of their Treasure and most of their Women and Children behind them. A strong Detachment of the Perfians were sent in Pursuit of them, who made several of them Prisoners.

Ashruff, with about 1500 of his Men, marched directly towards Kandahar. In the Way most of them deserted him, having only 100 when he was surpriz'd and set upon by a Body of the Baluches; with these few he he made a desparate and brave Defence, but being greatly overpowered, he and most of his Party were cut to Pieces.

Thamas Kuli Khan, having staid about a Month in Sbiraz, set out for Hamadan, in order to recover it, with other Places formerly belonging to the Perfians, which the Turks had seized during the late Troubles. On his Arrival there, Abdallab Basha came against him with all his Forces, who, being worsted, fled towards Carmanshab: Thamas Kuli pursued him thither, and defeated him a second Time. Having staid a few Days at Carmanshab, and fixed a Garrison there, he set out for Tabriz. As soon as he recovered and secured that important Place, he detached a strong Party to Ardebil, which the Enemy had quitted on their Approach. The Turks, being thus unsuccessful, demanded a Truce; which Thamas Kuli granted the more readily, as the Abdollees at Herat rebelled a second Time, and had a powerful Army in the Field.

Having secured, and left sufficient Garrisons in those Places he had lately recovered, he set out for Herat. After defeating the Abdollees Army, he laid Siege to the City, which which being a Place of great Strength, held out until Famine obliged them to surrender. He put the Governor and all the principal Men to Death, and having peopled the Place with Perians, and left a Garrison of his own Men therein, he marched to Mushad.

During this Time, Shab Thamas, who was at Isfahan, finding the Turks were sending Forces from Constantinople and other Parts towards the Frontiers of Perisia, he raised an Army of 20000 Men, and set out for Tabriz, where, joining the Troops left there by Thamas Kuli, he marched to Eriwan, and defeating a Body of Turks, besieged the Castle, but not being able to supply his Army with Provisions there, he returned to Tabriz, and from thence intended to advance towards Carmanshah, but was prevented by Ahmed Basha, who, coming against him with a superior Army, entirely defeated him. A few Days after this Battle, the Basha sent him Word, he was impowered by the Grand Signior to conclude a Peace with him. The King came readily into the Basha's Proposals, which were, that each Party should remain in Possession of what they had then got.

When

When Thamas Kuli Khan was informed of this Peace he was greatly enraged, and wrote to the King and several of the Nobility, acquainting them, he would soon wait on His Majesty, and convince him of the Necessity there was to break this scandalous Peace. Accordingly he set out with all Speed from Mujhad, and in August, 1732. arrived at Isfahan with his whole Army, which amounted to upwards of 60000, all choice Troops. He waited on the King, and told him, He ought first to make an Example of those who advised him to such dishonourable Measures, and then carry on the War with Vigour against the Enemy. The King seeming unwilling to break the Peace he had concluded with the Turks, Thamas Kuli Khan told him, he had good Reason to believe most of the Courtiers were his Enemies, and had been endeavouring to prevail with His Majesty to take away his Life. The King assured him his Informations were not true. Upon which Kuli Khan presented the King with a Bundle of Letters, telling him, these would convince his Majesty, that he had just Ground for his Apprehensions. After which he took his Leave.

These

These Letters had been wrote to him privately by several of the Nobility at Court; in which they informed against each other, and acquainted him with their Designs against him. They also let him know what had passed in several Conversations with the King; at the same Time reflecting on his Majesty's Incapacity, and assuring Kuli Khan how much they had his Interest at Heart.

The King was astonished when he perused these Letters, and finding the Treason too general to be taken any notice of, unless he resolved to cut off the greatest Part of the Nobility, he destroyed the Letters, being determined to wait for a more convenient Opportunity of resenting their Villany.

Thamas Kuli Khan, who with his Army lay encamped without the City, waited to know what Effect these Letters would have on the King; but finding he took no Notice of them, he consulted with the Chiefs of his Army, and acquainted them with the Steps he had taken. They agreed with him in Opinion, that the King's Intention was to destroy him and his Friends, and disband the Army; and that the late shameful Peace concluded with the Turks was chiefly with a View of having more Leisure and Opportunity to accomplish his Designs. Kuli Khan told them, the only Expedient to save them and himself, would be to depose the King, and set up his Son in his Stead; by which Means they should have a fair Pretence of making a Rupture with the Ottoman Porte: His Officers came readily into this Scheme, which was executed in the following manner.

Kuli Khan invited the King to a Review of the Army; he accordingly went, and was exceedingly delighted with the fine Appearance they made, and the Performance of their Exercise, the Merit of which he publickly attributed to the General. As the King was riding thro' the Ranks, some of the Under-officers and Soldiers said aloud, "If your "Majesty has any Commands, we are ready "to execute them." This at first surprized Kuli Khan, but on recovering himself, he, with his usual Prefence of Mind, addressed the King, desiring him to tell them they were to obey their General Thamas Kuli Khan, to whom he had given the sole Command of the Army; which his Majesty complied with, and then went to a Banquet which had been prepared for him in the General's neral's Tent. The King having indulged too freely in drinking Wine, (which 'tis supposed was mixed with some intoxicating Drug) he fell asleep on his Sofa. The General ordered his own People to carry him to a Seraglio in the Garden of Hazar Jerib. His Majesty's Servants who were then in Waiting, seeming to dispute Kuli Khan's Orders, by telling him, they would take Care of the King, were commanded to withdraw at their Peril ; upon which they endeavoured to make their Escape, but were seized by the Guards, and confined.

After Kuli Khan had secured the King, and placed Guards over him, he returned to his Tent, where most of the General Officers, who had been present at this Scene, were attending. He asked them, what was to be done further with the King ? They replied, Nothing more than what is already done : But he soon perswaded them it would be necessary to keep him confined in some remote Part of the Empire : and accordingly three Days afterwards he was sent to Mazandran, attended by a Guard of 600 Men, among whom were very few Perfian Troops, being

After seizing the King, he sent a strong Detachment to the City, to take Possession of the Palace, and place Guards at the City Gates, and in some of the principal Streets. Early next Morning he was proclaimed by Beat of Drum, that no Persons, on Pain of Death, should stir out of their Houses : At Noon finding every Thing was quiet and easy, a second Proclamation was made, ordering all People to carry on their Business and several Occupations, and go abroad, as usual.

The Perfians made secretly great Lamentations, imagining their King was killed ; but being informed he was alive, they flattered themselves with Hopes that the Army would rise in his Defence.

Next Day after the King was sent away, Kuli Khan went to the Palace in great Pomp, attended by all the Officers both Civil and Military. He ordered the King's Son to be brought out of the Seraglio, who being then in his Cradle, was placed on the Throne ; the Royal Diadem was put at the Head, and the Sword and Target fixed to the Side thereof ;

after which, with the proper Ceremony, he was declared King, by the Name of Shah Abasi the Third. Kuli Khan first swore Fidelity to him on the Koran, and the rest followed his Example.

This Mock Ceremony being over, he continued in the Palace until he had appointed proper Officers in the City, and removed those Governors of distant Province whom he did not care to confide in : Afterwards he set out with his Forces against the Turks, and meeting Ahmed Basha at the Head of a numerous Army, within a few Days Journey of Baghdad, he entirely defeated him, and marched towards the City, which he laid close Siege to. The Garrison being very numerous, defended it a long Time, but a terrible Famine raging amongst them, they were on the Point of surrenderring, when Topal Othman, Basha Serafier, and several other Bashas came with an Army, which, including Servants, &c. was upwards of 200000 Men. Having advanced near Baghdad, they obliged Thamas Kuli Khan to raise the Siege, and give 'em Battle. The Persian Army, which then consisted of 120000 Men, charged so furiously, and seconded their Attacks with so much Vigour, gour, that the Turks were on the Point of giving Way, when Kuli Khan's Horse was shot under him. Having fought some Time on Foot, before he could get re-mounted, his Standard-bearer concluded he was killed, and rode off with the Colours. This alarm'd the whole Army, who instantly faced about and fled: Kuli Khan endeavoured to rally them, but to no Purpose; the Turks pursuing with great Fury, made a terrible Slaughter of them: The Perfians lost in this Action upwards of 60000 Men, and the Turks nigh as many.

This Defeat would have discouraged any but Kuli Khan, who had a Soul superior to all Misfortunes. He stopped at Hamadan, where in a few Days most of the Troops who were dispersed joined him. He told them he had certain Intelligence the Turks had given over Pursuit, and had divided their vast Army into lesser Parties, for the Convenience of foraging and getting Provisions, of which they were in great Want: He was determin'd to go and attack 'em one Party after another, and either conquer or die, since after what had been already done they could expect no Mercy from their Country, to which they must must never return but in Triumph: And should they give the Turks any Time to refresh and unite their Troops, they would certainly be an Over-match for them: His Officers being entirely of the same Opinion, he marched back with great Expedition, and fell upon the first Party of the Turks, who, imagining him to be at a great Distance, were not prepared to receive him. Having successively beat three considerable Bodies of them, he at last encountered Topal Othman Basha, at the Head of 60,000 Men, who being shot in the Beginning of the Action, his whole Army was soon routed, and put to Flight.

Since this Battle the Turks have not appeared in the Field against him, but suffered him for two Years successively to take one Place after another, some by Storm, and others by Capitulation, till he had recovered all the Territories they had seized during the late Troubles.

This unexpected Success had greatly raised his Reputation, and Volunteers came from all Quarters to offer him their Service. Having compleated a choice Army, he marched a second Time to besiege Baghdad.
When

When the Siege was pretty far advanced, he received News, that Mahammed Khan Balluche, one of his Generals, had rebelled, and proclaimed Shab Thamas King; that he had taken the City of Shiraz, and had an Army of 30000 Men, which increased daily: Whereupon Kuli Khan immediately raised the Siege, and marching with all Expedition against the Rebels, was upon them when they least expected him. Upon the first Report of his Troops being near, they marched out to attack them, imagining it was only a small Detachment under the Command of one of his Officers, but they had not advanced above 20 Miles before they met him at the Head of his Van-Guard, which consisted of 12000 Men. Mahammed Khan Balluche being overjoyed to find him attended by so few, told his Officers, that Fortune had delivered Thamas Kuli Khan into their Hands; that they might easily defeat him, before he could have any Succours, as his main Army was a Days Journey behind: But when they approached each other, and heard Kuli Khan thundering out his Orders, they were struck with such a Panick, that they fled, without sustaining his first Attack:

Attack. Mahomed Khan Balluche, who was personally brave, having singled out Kuli Khan, rode full Speed towards him; being repulsed, he fought his Way back again, and intended to make his Escape, by crossing the Gulf of Persia in an Arab Vessel; but those treacherous People seized him, and, in hopes of a Reward, carried him to Thamas Kuli Khan, who sent him to Prison, in order to force him into a Confession of his Accomplices, and what Treasure and Effects he had. In this he was disappointed, for the Moment Mahomed Khan Balluche was left alone, he hanged himself. They could find no Papers that gave any Account of the Persons he corresponded with, or where his Effects (which were very considerable) had been deposited. Thus ended this brave Man, who was deservedly esteemed for several good Qualities; he was as great (tho' not so fortunate) a Soldier, as any in the East, and judged to be the best Horseman in Persia.

Thamas Kuli Khan staid a few Days in Shiraz, being employed in putting to Death some of the principal Persons concerned in the Rebellion, and seizing their Effects. He afterwards returned to Isfahan, where settling some Affairs, he set out for Georgia, and took the Capital Teflis by Storm, upon which the whole Country submitted to him ; from thence he marched to Eriwan, the Capital of Armenia, which having recovered, he afterwards took Shamakhi by Capitulation, and Ganjin by Storm. In the mean Time, he sent a Messenger to the Russians to desire them to relinquish Gilan and the Silk Countries, according to their Promise, otherwise he should be obliged to pay them a Visit ; as they had no Inclination to enter into a War with him, they evacuated all the Places on this Side the Caspian Sea, except Derbend and Bacbu, which he had given up to them. Upon this he concluded a firm Peace with them, and not long after made a Peace with the Turks.

Having thus settled Affairs in Regard to those two Powers, he sent a general Edict to all the Rulers of Provinces, Chiefs of Tribes, and Governors of Cities and Towns, commanding them to meet him on a certain Day in the Plains of Chuli Mogham, on Pain of high Displeasure. At the Time appointed they appeared, to the Number of 6000 and upwards, at the said Place, where they found him encamp'd with an Army of 15000 Men.

Men. Thamas Kuli Khan ordering them to appear before him, he told them, the Reason of calling them together was to acquaint them that he had now subdued all the Enemies of the Perſian Empire, except the Kandahar Afghans, whom he was determined to march against very soon ; that, after he had reduced them to Obedience, he intended to retire, and end the Remainder of his Days in Peace and Tranquility, unless his Country should again require his Service ; that he had made Peace with the Turks and Muscovites, and chastised the Tartars, and other Enemies on the Frontiers, in such a Manner, that (in all Probability) they would remain quiet for a long Time, so that it only remained with them to elect a King, either Shah Thamas their late Sovereign, or any other whom they judged the most capable ; adding that he expected their Answer in three Days. After this he retired to his Tent, and gave Orders that the said Assembly should be entertained at the public Expence, during their Stay in the Camp. In the mean Time, Kuli Khan's Creatures took Care to intimate to the principal Persons, that they ought to compliment their Regent and General with an Offer of the Crown, tho' at the same Time, they were certain he would not accept of it. When the Time was expired, they waited on him with an Address ; in which, after setting forth the signal Services he had done to his Country, they begg'd he would accept of the Crown and take the Charge of the Empire upon him, and that they (as faithful Subjects) would assist him on all Occasions with their Lives and Fortunes. Thamas Kuli Khan told them, that he thank'd them for the Honour they had done him, which was contrary to his Intention in calling them together, yet as he look'd upon the Voice of the People to be the Voice of God, he must submit to the Care of a Crown, and sacrifice his own Ease to the public Good, not doubting but (by the Blessing of the Almighty, and their unanimous Concurrence) he should raise the Persian Nation to as great a Pitch of Glory as any of their former Kings had done. And, in order to set out right, and have a perfect Understanding with them, he should require three Things to be solemnly confirmed by them :

I. That they should make the Crown Hereditary to his Heirs for ever.

II. That

II. That no one, on Pain of Death, and Confiscation of Effects, should presume to take up Arms in Favour of the late Royal Family, or any Branch thereof, on any Pretence whatever, nor so much as mention any Thing tending to Rebellion.

III. That, as great Disturbances and ~~Mis~~ chiefs had always arose between them and their Neighbours, the Turks, Indians, and Tartars, on Account of the Difference of Religion, he desired a Number of the Religious of both Sects might assemble to consider of, and resolve upon, an Uniformity ; adding, that as the Points in which the Sunnis and Schias * differed were not very essential, he was of Opinion an Accommodation might be easily effected.

* The Sunnis are those Mahomedans, who acknowledge as lawful the Succession of Abubuckr, Aumar, Othman, and Ali, and receive the Koran and Mahomed's Traditions in the Sense they are expounded by their four great Doctors, Abul Hanifa, Malek, Shafi, and Hanbal.

The Schias are they who dispute the Lawfulness of the Succession of Abubuckr, Aumar, and Othman, and maintain that Mortisa A'i (according to the Prophet's Will) ought immediately to succeed him. They pay no Regard to the Opinions of the abovementioned Doctors, but are entirely guided by their own Imâms.

The Grandees came readily into the two first Articles, but as to the last they desired he would first hear what the Mullah Bashi (or High-Priest) had to offer on that Head before they should subscribe to it. Accordingly the High-Priest addressed him, and said, ‘ As to Matters of Religion we have the Law of God, and the Traditions of his Prophet Mahomed to direct us, it is not for Princes to make Innovations therein ; and therefore I humbly hope your Majesty will not begin your Reign with attempting to overthrow the Established Religion, as a Step of that Nature must be attended with dangerous Consequences.’ Then Kuli Khan immediately ordered him to be strangled, to prevent the People from attempting to second his Discourse, which they would certainly have done, if this sudden Execution has not deterred them from it. He then asked the People whether they would subscribe, and take Oaths to what he had proposed ; which they tamely and readily submitted to. The next Day, being March 1735-6. he was proclaimed Emperor of Perſia, by the Name of Nādīn bitter Enemies, for cutting off the Mullah Basbi, and for the Alteration they found he was determined to make in Religion ; but, in order to prevent their being able to do him any Injury, he sent for the Chiefs of them, and ask'd in what Manner they employed the vast Revenues they had. The told him, that they apply'd them to the religious Purposes for which they were intended, such as Salaries for Priests, the Maintenance of Colleges, and a great Number of Mosques, in which Prayers were daily and hourly offered up for Success to the Arms of their Prince, and Prosperity to the Empire of Perſia. He told them, that by Experience it was evident their Prayers had not been heard, since for fifty Years past the Nation has been on the Decline, and at laſt almost ruined by Invasions and Rebellions, until God's victorious Instruments (meaning his Army) had come to its Relief, who were now ready to ſacrifice their Lives for the Defence and Glory thereof ; that theſe poor Priests (pointing to his Soldiers) were in Want, and muſt be supply'd by ſome Means or other ; that therefore it was his Royal Pleasure, that the greatest Part of the Church Lands and Revenues should be confiscated and appropriated towards paying the Army; which was accordingly done, and by an exact Computation, found to amount to near 1,000,000 Tomans, which is about 3,000,000*l. per Annum.* The Priests were highly enraged at this Treatment, and did all they could to stir up the Army and People against him; the former, being above half Sunnis, only laughed at them; and the latter, when they considered that by this they were to be eased of a Part of the Taxes, were not dissatisfy'd with it. After this Kuli Khan sent for the Chiefs of the People, and acquainting them with what he had done, told them, if they wanted Priests, they must provide them at their own Expence; that, for his Part, having little Occasion for any, he would be at no Charge about them. He then published an Edict (of which the following is a literal Translation) ordering all his Subjects to conform to the Sunni Religion, on Pain of his Royal Displeasure.

This Edict was received with great Joy by Numbers of his Subjects, as many being secretly of that Perswasion, as of the Schia established Religion; it was particularly agreeable to his Soldiers, who being chiefly Sunnis, became thereby the more attach'd to him. However impolitic these Steps might have seem'd at first, yet it was the only Method he could have thought of in order to establish himself and his Heirs on the Throne of Perſia; besides the Advantages it already has and may still give him in his future Designs on his Neighbours, who are of the same Religion which he has now established in Perſia.

Shortly after he was elected and proclaimed King, he went to the City of Kazvin (or Kasbin) where the Ceremony of Inauguration of the Perſian Monarchs is performed. Having girt on the Royal Scymitar, and put the Imperial Crown on his Head, he took the usual Oath, which is, To govern the People according to the Laws of God, as revealed

vealed by his Prophet Mahommed, and protect and defend them against all their Enemies.

After this, he marched with his Army to Isfahan, where he continued some Time, making Preparations for his Expedition to Kandahar. During his Stay there, he received the Compliments of the neighbouring Powers : The Grand Signior and Moghol acknowledged him as Emperor of Perſia, and at the same time congratulated him on having established the true Orthodox Religion in his Empire, and discouraged the former Heresy.

In December, 1736, Nadir Shah set out from Isfahan, with an Army of upwards of 80000, chiefly Horse, and marched towards Kandahar, by the Way of Carmania, and was shortly after followed by Thamas Khan Vakeel with about 40000 more.

What happened after this, the Gentleman who favoured me with the above Memoirs is a Stranger to ; excepting that on his Departure from Perſia to India, which was in February, 1736-7, he heard Nadir Shah had besieged Kandahar. His Transactions ſince that Time, I shall continue as translated from ſome Perfic Manuscripts, Manuscripts, which I have mentioned in the Preface.

The same Gentleman has also favoured me with a personal Description and Character of this great Heroe, which I shall reserve for the Conclusion of these Sheets.

Nadir Shah, having securely established himself, and settled his Affairs in Perſia, he left his Son Reza Kuli Mirza to command there, and set out with his Army towards Kandahar. Hossein Khan, the Governor thereof, having laid up great Stores of Provisions and Ammunition, held out for 18 Months; at last, being reduced to Straits, he fellied out with his Men, most of whom died bravely fighting. Hossein Khan and his Son being taken Prisoners, the Perſians entered the Castle, and took Possession thereof.

While Nadir Shah was busy in securing and fortifying Kandahar, and bringing over to him the Zemidars of those Parts, Letters came from Nizam al Muluck and Saadit Khan, inviting him to march towards Hindoſtan. In Answer to which, he objected the Difficulties of getting thro' the Defiles, passing the great Rivers, and the many Encounters he must expect to have with the Afghans, and the warlike Nations of those Parts, the Opposition he must expect from Naçir Khan, Soubahdar of Cabul, and Zekaria Khan, Ruler of Labor; and, last of all (should his Fortune surmount all these) his Fate will depend on his Success against a powerful Imperial Army. They soon satisfied him how unnecessary his Fears were, and that, before he cross'd the Attok*, he should have a Proof how able they were, and how much inclined to facilitate his Passage. Being encouraged by those Representations, he set out with an Army of 125,000 Horse, Kuzzlebaʃh, Georgians, Turks, Khorasanis, Balkhis, &c. all inured to Fatigues and Hardships; they were well provided for this Expedition, and greatly encouraged thereto by the Hopes he gave them, of not only enriching themselves, but bringing Wealth and Glory to their impoverished Country, by the Plunder of India. In * Attok is the Name of a River, that separates the Province of Labor from Peishor. There is but one Place where an Army can be conveniently transported, the Stream being so rapid in most Parts. There is a Castle commanding that Passage, called the Castle of Attok.

the mean Time, Nizam al Milluck and Saadit Khan used all their Endeavours secretly to promote his Interest, and wrote to Sirzib Khan †, Governor of the Castle of Cabal, and Naçir Khan, Soubabdar of that Province (who was a Creature of Khandar, as'ay) as also to Zekaria Khan, Ruler of the Province of Labor, to this Purport : ‘ Nadir Shah, being thoroughly informed of the State of Affairs in India, and that his Imperial Majesty and favourite Courtiers employ their Time in Wine and Women, has come to a Resolution to strike a Blow at this Empire. You well know that none of the great Ones here are fit to take the Field, much less to resist a Man who is conducted by Fortune. As this is the Case, you can have little Hopes of Assistance from hence ; the best you can do will be to behave discreetly, and save yourselves.’ These Letters cooled them pretty much, and had † ‘Tis customary in India to have two Governors, one to command the City, and another to command the Castle. The latter is generally for Life, and he must never stir out of the Castle, unless he is turned out by the Mogbol. The Governor of the City is called Hakem, and he who commands the Castle is called Kulledar.

132      The HISTORY of the desired Effect with Naqir Khan and Zekaria Khan.

Nadir Shah, having subdued Ghorbund and Guznavi, and garrison'd them with his own People, came to Cabul and besieged it. Naqir Khan (before his Arrival) had left it, and marched to Peishor; but Sherzib Khan defended both the City and Castle for 6 Weeks with the utmost Bravery, and wrote repeatedly to Naqir Khan, and to Court for Assistance; but none coming, both City and Castle were at last taken by Storm, and he and his Son were put to Death. Nadir Shah found Treasure, Jewels, Arms, &c. to a great Value, which, since the Great Moghol Babr's Time, had been shut up in Vaults. When the Taking of Cabul was known at Court, the Emperor gave Orders to get his Troops in Readiness, and provide all Things necessary for taking the Field. As Rajah Jeffing was more attached to Kbandoran than to any of the other Omras, he repeatedly wrote to him to this Purport: ‘Nadir Shah's Coming is a concerted Thing. You must

' be watchful over the Moghol Omras ‡, who ' seem to be united in order to compass some ' treacherous Design. iNaçir Khan and Sher-
 ' zib Khan have always been supported by ' the Court; one has sacrificed his Life to ' its Interest, and the other (afraid of his ' Life) has fled to Peishor. If Zekaria Khan,
 ' Ruler of Labor, makes any Opposition, it ' will give the Emperor's Army Time to ad' vance pretty far, in order to check this In-' vader; as for us Rajpouts we are ready to ' join the Royal Ensigns.

Khandoran knowing him to be well-affected, represented this to the Emperor, and told him, it would be very imprudent in him to leave the Capital, and take the Field: However, it was at last agreed, that the Army should march to Labor, that the Emperor should accompany it so far, and that from thence it should proceed towards Cabul, under the Command of Nizam al Muluck, and the other two Omras; for which Purpose,

‡ By the Moghol Omras, he means those of Tartar and Perſian Families, whom the Indians, without Diſtinction, call Moghols.

the Peishkhanna* was ordered out to the Gardens of Shalimar; but after it was sent thither, to every Body's Surprise, Khandoran came back to the Palace, and delayed the March, whereas Nizam seemed to be hastening it all in his Power. The Emperor's Servants, who knew Khandoran to be attached to their Master, contrived all the Impediments they could think of, so that Nadir Shah had not only Time to secure Cabul, but was far advanced in his March to Peiskor†, where the Afghans and Mountaineers very much incommoded him, and kept him in Play for Seven Weeks; in which Time he had a great many Men wounded and killed. Seeing there was no forcing the Passes, without much Bloodshed, and that the Afghans had fortified themselves on the Tops of the Hills; he sent them Offers of Accommodation, which they came into the more readily, as the Soubahdars had sent no Assistance; and that they had been four or five Years without * Peishkanna signifies the Tents, &c. that are sent before to the Place where the Prince, or General Officer, designs to halt, or encamp.

receiving any of their usual Allowance ‡ from Court : Upon Nadir Shah's paying them a certain Sum of Money, they not only let him pass unmolested, but several of them listed in his Army ; the other Afghans hearing of this, followed their Example. So, leaving the main Army behind, with 10,000 chosen Horse of Kuzzlebāsh ||, in seven Days he got to Peishor. Naṣir Khan, who with 7000 Horse had incamped without the City, not imagining he could get through the Passes so soon, upon hearing of his Approach with so large a Body of Horse, was greatly perplexed ; several of his Auxiliaries left him, and few besides the King's Men stood by him, who, after a brave Resistance, were defeated,

‡ As the Revenues of those mountainous Parts and the Passes, are not sufficient to maintain a requisite Number of Troops for the Defence thereof, there was a certain Sum appointed to be yearly remitted thither, which of late had been neglected.

and Naçir Khan taken Prisoner. Some Afghans who, waiting the Event, were posted on the Hills, seeing Nadir Shah prevail, came and offered him their Service. After this Victory, he entered Peishor and took Possession thereof. When the News of this Defeat came to Court, Nizam al Muluck, Kbandoran, Kummir o'din Khan, and the other Omras, according to the King's Order, on the second of January, 1738-9, marched out with a numerous Army, a large Train of Artillery, and other warlike Necessaries, in order to oppose this Conqueror; and halted at the Gardens of Shalimar. Nizam, who was the Contriver of this Storm, endeavoured all he could to prepossess the Minds of the Soldiers with a Terror of Nadir Shah's Forces, and how vain it was to resist him; and, at the same Time, amused them to divert their going too far forward: But the King issued out Orders, that Nizam and the other Omras should advance with all Expedition, he himself intending to follow soon after them. Nizam al Muluck, and the rest, according to these Orders, marched on, and encamped in the Plains of Karnal, which is Fifty-Five Coss * distant from Dehli. The Emperor also set out the 18 of January, 1738-9, and on the 4th of February joined them.

Nadir Shah having secured Peishor, and crossed the Attok, marched directly towards Labor; Zekaria Khan, Soubahdar thereof, had (to Appearance) fortified the Place in the best Manner possible, and having entrenched himself without, seemed eager to engage the Enemy, but as soon as Nadir Shah's Troops came within Sight of the Intrenchments (having had his Lesson from Nizam al Muluck) at a Signal given, he and all his Forces retreated to the Castle, from whence they cannonaded the Perians three Days, after which, having capitulated, one of the Conditions being, that the City should be spared, a Thousand Kuzzlebash took possession of the Castle, and Nadir Shah having staid one Week in the Gardens called Shalimar † of that City, he, with his whole Army, by continued Marches, arrived at the Village Tillauvri, which is near Karnal.

* The Coss mentioned here are short computed ones, this Place being no more than 26 measured Coss from Dehli.

† There are Gardens at Labor also called Shalimar, as well as at Dehli.

* In a Letter that was wrote from Mahomed Shah's Camp, a Day after the Engagement, it is said, that Nadir Shah fought with 50,000 Horse: And when Khandoran and Mazuffer Khan came with their Forces, he divided his Men into three Bodies, and at last routed the Moghol's Army. Saadit Khan's and Sherjing's Elephants getting foul of each other, the Kuzzlebah surrounded and took them Prisoners. Khandoran received a Bullet in his Arm, and another in his Side.—Mazuffer Khan was killed, jumping from his Elephant.—Mr Gullou, Shehdad Khan, Akhlaſi Khan, Eadgar Khan, and Khandoran's eldest Son were killed. Akul beg Khan Kumlpoiſh, with his Son, and Abdal Rizák Khan, and Jaffer Khan, with his Son and Brothers, and Sirdár Muluck were wounded. Mirza Khoudabunda, Grandson to the great Mohabit Khan, was killed.—Khan Zuman Khan was wounded by a Bullet in his Throat.—Ghazi beg Khan was also wounded.—On Nadir Shah's Side seven principal Officers, and 2500 Men were killed, and about 5000 wounded with Swords, Cuttar-ris, and Bullets.

mult and Noise in the Camp, and most of the Tents and Effects of Khandoran, Mazuffer Khan, Saadit Khan, &c. were plundered by their own People.

Amidst this Confusion the Emperor went towards Nizam al Muluck's Mourcha, who was in the Front, and in Conjunction with the Vizir and other Omras, went without the Mourchas, and drew up their Men in a Line of Battle, with a Design to put a Stop to the Enemies advancing any farther ; but, had not the Night come on, these Precautions would have served them in little Stead, and that Day would have put an End to the whole affair. About an hour after Sun-set the Emperor returned back to his Tent.

Several of those who escaped out of the Field, as also those who attended the Baggage and Carriages, fled towards Dchli ; a great many of whom were killed and plundered in the Way.

The Camp in some Places was very thin of Men, insomuch that when at Midnight, the Emperor sent for Nizam al Muluck, the Space from his Mourcha to the Emperor's Tent (which is about three Quarters of a Cofs) was found entirely empty.

Nizam

Nizam al Muluck, Sirbullind Khan, Kum-mir o'din Khan, and all the other Omras that were left, staid with the Emperor in deep Consultation until near the Morning, when each returned to his own Quarters.

On the 16th †, finding the Camp so thin, and being apprehensive of the Kuzzlebasti's attacking them, they contracted the Circuit thereof, and their Mourchas into the Compais requisite to contain the Number of Troops they had left, which was the Space between the Emperor's Tent and Nizam's Mourcha, and there they stood under arms the whole Day, every Minute expecting the Enemy's Approach. Towards the Evening a small Tent was pitched for the Emperor, and all the Troops were disposed of to their respective Posts, where they continued under Arms the whole Night, and their Horses saddled, without either Hay or Corn.

The 17th || also passed in Fear and Anxiety. This Day, according to an Order, from Nadir Shab, Saadit Khan sent for his own Men and Baggage; some of them who

On the 18th †, Nizam al Muluck * and Azim Alla Khan went to accommodate Matters to Nadir Shah's Camp; after a Stay of six Hours, they returned back; what they might have done there, was kept a Secret. Towards the Close of the Evening, Khandoran died of the Wounds he had received.

To this Discourse, there was none present but Javead Khan, Bebroz Khan, and Ghazi o'din Khan; towards Evening the Emperor returned back to his own Camp, and several of his officers having represented to him, that the Banians made the Grain very dear, he ordered their Shops to be plundered, which, instead of mending the Matter, very much increased the Dearth of Provisions. On the 21st*, in the Morning, Nizam al Muluck, the Vizir, Azim Allah Khan, and Ghazi o'din Khan, went to Nadir Shah: On their taking Leave to return, Nizam was honoured with a Present of a Coat, Vest, and a Horse; the Vizir, Azim Allah Khan, and Ghazi o'din Khan, each with a Coat and Vest; at nine o'Clock at Night, they waited on Mahomed Shah, and communicated to him what had passed in their Conference, which was not made publick. Bodies lay spread over the Space of seven Cos; the said Beldars having strewed a little Earth on some of the Carcasses, returned back. It was reported that 400 of Nadir Shah's People fell in Battle, and that 700 were wounded, but of those that were killed not one was to be seen in the Field, they having buried them that same Night. Of the Hindostan Army, several were wounded in such a Manner, that they were not able to stir, nor had any the Compassion to bring them off the Field of Battle to be cured, so that in a little Time they expired among the rest of the dead Bodies : Three Elephants were also killed.

On this Day (which is the 21st \*) there was no Grain to be had without great Trouble, and that at the Rate of 1 and  $1\frac{1}{2}$  Seers § of Wheat, per Rupee, and 2 to 4 Rupees per Seer of Ghee † ; the Reason of which was, that since the Day of Battle the Camp until Midnight; at last the Emperor declared that Affairs were now gone beyond his Power, and that he must do one of three Things; To-morrow to march out and make one desperate Push, to determine his Fortune at once, or put an End to all Thoughts and Misery by a Dose of Poison; or else submit peaceably to what Terms may be imposed. The Emperor's Inclination (tho' he did not then declare it) was for the last of these.

At Night arrived a Note from Nadir Shab to this Effect: ' Sirbullind Khan,
‘ be of good Chear, and perfectly composed,
‘ get yourself hither before Mahomed Shab
‘ sets out.’

On the 26th * Sirbullind Khan having obtained Leave, marched towards Nadir Shah's Camp, and, according to an Order, leaving his Men and Baggage on the Right-hand thereof, he, with Khan Zad Khan, three Horsemen and four or five Servants entered the Camp, and pitched a small Tent for himself near the Bargab †, close by Saadit Khan's Quarters.

About nine o'Clock that Morning, Mahomed Shah (according to an Order) being seated in a Royal Litter, with a Canopy and Umbrella, set out for Nadir Shah's Camp, attended by Emir Khan, Ishak Khan, and some Eunuchs. On his Arrival he alighted at a Tent, which had been pitched the Day before by Nadir Shah's Order, for that Purpose, in the Front of the Camp, where he was allowed to have as many of his Domes-ticks of all Sorts as were necessary, and 1000 Kuzzlebasch Horsemen were detached as Guards round him. About 8 o'Clock in the Evening, Mahomed Shah being called, went to wait on Nadir Shah; after three

On the 27th †, Sirbullind Khan, being called, went to Nadir Shah's Dirbar ‡, he was ordered to attend the Towpchi Bashi || and the Nissikkchi Bashi *, who had each 200 Horse, and that, with the Assistance of Saad o'din Khan, the Towpchi Bashi should seize all the King's and Omras Ordnance ; and the Nissikkchi Bashi, with Kummir o'din Khan's Help, the Treasury, Jewels, Toishik-khanna †, and all the other Implements and Arms that belonged to the Emperor and the deceased Omras, and to send to Mahammed Shah, his Son Sultan Ahmed, and Malika al Zumani §, the Empress, and to give Orders to Kummir

Accordingly they went and seized all these Things, and sent the Emperor's Son, with Malika al Zumani, and the rest of the Mahl* (according to Nadir Shah's Orders) to Mahammed Shah.

This Day there were great Disorders and Confusion in Mahammed Shah's Boungab, insomuch that a great many Things were plundered and lost, and several out of Fear leaving their Tents and Effects, ran to and fro, looking out for a Corner to secure their Lives, especially the Artisans and Servants.

On the 28 †, Mahammed Shah, with his Men and Baggage, leaving only the Ordnance behind, went towards Nadir Shah's Camp:

It is also called Harram (i. e. prohibited, or unlawful, in Regard to Men) and in Turkey 'tis called Serai, which signifies the same as Mahl. The Women therin are also called Mahl, which is the Signification it bears here.

† The 27th of February.

In the Way he discharged the Babeers, and new listed Men, letting them go where they pleased. The Omras and the Emperor's old Servants, according to an Order for that Purpose, took up their Quarters at one Side of the Camp, being separated by a small Rivulet. The Effects of Mahommed Shah and the Omras, which were brought, were put into Nadir Shah's Possession ; and having picked out 200 Cannon with their Carriages out of Mahommed Shah's Ordnance, they sent them with some Treasure and other Effects then seized (accompanied by 1000 Horsemen, which belonged to the Emperor's Train of Artillery, and 2000 Kuzzlebash) to Cabul, to be from thence carried to Kandahar.

This Day Nadir Shah gave three Months pay as a Gratuity to every Man in his Army, Soldiers, Servants, Attendants, &c. just as he had done before at Kandahar upon taking it.

On the 29th *, in the Morning, Thamas Khan Vakeel was dispatched to Shahjehanabad, with 4000 Horse and Musqueteers to take Possession of the Castle ; as was also Saadit Khan for the Safe-guard and Care of the City,

On the 1st of Zelbujb\* Nadir Shah began to prepare for his March to Shahjehanabad, and at four next Morning he set out, attended by 20000 choice Horsemen ; 4000 Haquebusers were detached as a Kouruck † for that separate Quarter where the Mahl marched, betwixt which and the Army there was a Distance of near one Cofs, no Soul on Pain of Death, either of the Perfians or Indians, being allowed to pass that Way ; each Party marched at the Distance of one Arrow shot from the other. Mahomed Shah, with 40 or 50 of his principal People, and about 10,000 Kuzzlebash Horsemen, and 2000 Harquebusers, followed Nadir Shah at a Distance of one Coss : On one Side was Sirbullind Khan, with his own Men and Baggage, next him the Men and Baggage of Mahomed Shah; on another Side were the Men and Baggage of Nizam al Muluck, and Kummir o'din Khan, and next them Mahomed Khan Bungush with his Men and Baggage, each Party separated by a Distance of  $\frac{1}{2}$  and some  $\frac{1}{4}$  Coss, and between them marched Kuzzlebash Horsemen to prevent their joining, and make each Party march the Way that was appointed for them. The Compass of Ground they covered in their March, was five Coss in Length, and three in Breadth, and this Method was observed every Day's March.

After five Days continual marching they came to Sonput; there were several Villages in the Way which they not only plundered, but likewise killed a great many of the Inhabitants, Paniput and Sonput were also sacked.

On Tuesday the 6th of Zelbijb * they marched from Sonput, and came to Nirela. In the beginning of the Night, Sirbullind Khan having feigned an Indisposition, had Leave to go before to the City, and on the Morning he arrived at his own House.

On Wednesday the 7th † Nadir Shah arrived at the Gardens called Shallimár.

On Thursday the 8th ‡, Mahammed Shah, by Nadir Shah's Order, being seated in a Royal Litter, with a Canopy and Umbrella, two Standards, about 200 Horse and Foot of his own Servants, and 4000 Kuzzlebasb Horsemen entered the Castle. After which they gave him a Place near Aeysh Mahl §. Nadir Shah having heard, that the People of the City were of a seditious and turbulent Temper, did not care to enter in the Night Time. But this Morning, attended by 20,000 Horse, he marched with all the Caution imaginable to the Castle, leaving the rest of his Army encamped without the City :

They were in Conversation until the Evening, during which Time Nadir Shah behaved with the greatest Complaisance and seeming Affection to him. He issued out Orders in the most peremptory Manner, to prevent the Soldiers wronging or insulting any of the Inhabitants, and enjoined the Nis-fikhchis, who have the Inspection of these Things, to spare no Punishments, such as cutting off Ears and Noses, and bambooing to Death, whoever molested the Indians; for which Reason, none of the Kuzzlebash, either high or low, durst injure any of the Natives; but most of the People were so frighten'd at the terrible Aspect of these Men, and the barbarous Figure † they made, that they avoided (as much as possible) having any Dealings or Conversation with them.

the said Officer, and representing to him, that the People of that Quarter were not to blame, he made them desist and stop his Men, on promising they should pay a Sum of Money. But in other Places the Slaughter, Plundering, and Burning, went on in a most barbarous Manner.

Nadir Shah, after he had given the Orders, returned back to the Castle; about two o'Clock Mahomed Shah and Nizam al Mulk waited on him, who having made great Intercession for the city, the soldiers were ordered to desist, and it was proclaimed by Beat of Drum, that none of the Inhabitants should be any longer molested.

The Slaughter continued from eight in the Morning till three in the Afternoon; above 400 Kuzzlebash were killed, and of the Citizens (great and small) 12000 were slaughtered, others computed them 15000. What Treasure and Effects were plundered, some Nadir Shah had, and a great deal was destroyed by the Fire. In several of the Hindu Houses, where one of a Family survived, he used to pile thirty or forty Carcasses a-top of one another, and burn them; and so they did in the Streets, notwithstanding which there still remaine so many, that, for a considerable Time, there was no such Thing as passing away of those Ways. When the Slaughter began, those who raised the Commotion disappeared in an Instant, and left the innocent Shopkeepers, Bazaris, and many honest Families, to be butchered by the enraged Kuzzibash; several, jealous of their Honour, not only killed their Women, but laid also violent hands upon themselves; one of these unfortunate Wretches in particular, when the Soldiers came near his House, burnt about twenty Women of his Family, and was in Expectation of their entering every Minute and killing him; by Chance they missed that House, but he was so infatuated, that, finding himself disappointed, he went out, and bringing some of them back, shewed them the Way to his own House, telling them there was a good deal of Money and Effects therein. After they had plundered his House, they went their Way without killing him, which so enraged him, that he dispatched himself. There were great Numbers of People, especially Women and Children, burnt in their Houses.

This Day, according to the Shah's Order, Parties of Soldiers were planted as Guards all around the City to the Banks of the River, and in the Rete opposite to the Castle, to prevent any Persons going out without Licence, but to hinder none from coming in : All those who were brought bound from the Serai of Rough Allah Khan, had their Heads cut off, and were thrown into the Rete.

During this Time they were busy in preparing Illuminations on the Banks of the River, and Fireworks for the Wedding of Nesr Alla Mirza, Nadir Shah's Son, who was to be married to the Daughter of Iesdan Bukhsh, the Son of Kam Bukhsh, and Grandson of Auring-zebe.

ing staid until the Evening, and enrolled some Names, returned to their own Houses.

On Monday the 19th * they all met there again, and were taken up all that Day in the enrolling of Names, and preparing the List. This Day Seyd Neáz Khan who, the Night before the Slaughter, had shut up several of the Kuzzlebásh in a Room, and burnt them) was, by Nadir Sháh's Order, strangled with a Shaul, and Sheb Soar Khan and Raiyan, who in that Night were the Promoters of Mischief, were punished likewise. portion to his Circumstances. Formerly Saadat Khan was ordered to collect this Money : After his Death, and the Slaughter and Plunder of the City, this Business was recommended to the Care of Sirbullind Khan, and the other Omras, which Thamas Khan, at this Meeting, pressed them about : Accordingly it was now agreed, that Azim Allah Khan, Chuckl Keisvir, Vakeel of the Soubahdar of Bengal, Seeta Ram, and all the Mansubdars and Officers of the Chaboutra, &c. should meet at Sirbullind Khan's House, and make an End of this Affair. All Officers, Inhabitants, &c. who were suspected to be rich, were ordered to give in a List of what Money or Effects they were Masters of, to be laid before the Shah, that what he liked he might take, and what he forgave them they might keep ; and whoever pleaded Poverty, such Person should declare the same by a Writing under his Hand and Seal, that in Case it should be afterwards proved, that he had given in a false Account, he might be punished.

That Day the People beforementioned came to Sirbullind Khan's House, and having

by bad Usage, forced to dispatch themselves, and Numbers died of the Blows they received ; those who came best off, had either a Leg or an Arm lamed ; from Morning to Night, nothing was done or thought of, but gathering in this Money, in which no Barbarities were left unpractised. This so dispirited the Inhabitants, that if one Kuzzle-bash Horseman came among 10000 of them, he might safely use them with all the Severities he pleased. This Work went on until the Day Nadir Shah left the City, when near four Crore * were collected from the People. Three Crore †, and thirty Lacks of Rupees, were paid into Nadir Shah's Treasury, and seventy Lacks ‡ were made away with among his Omras, and some expended among the 1000 Horsemen ; a great deal was sunk in the undervaluing of Goods, for a Horse worth 500 Rupees ||, was only rated at 5 Tomans §, which is 100 Rupees, and Sbauls of 50 Rupees * taken at one Toman, or twenty Rupees †, and Jewels and other Goods, in the same Proportion: What the Shah took was valued in this Manner, and received for so much in the Contribution Account; but what he had no occasion for was sold, and the Produce brought to Account, which was no Advantage to the Owners of the Goods, as there were no Buyers but the Kuzzlebash.

Since the Day of the general Slaughter, wherever any Granaries were, the Kuzzlebash seized them; this and the Roads being stopt to all Quarters made Wheat 2 Seers a Rupee, Rice  $1\frac{1}{2}$  Seer, and Ghee  $\frac{1}{2}$  Seer: Things were at that Rate for about twenty Days; at last, Sirbullind Khan and Azim Alla Khan, having obtained a Pass and Licence, sent several Waggons to fetch Corn from Feridabad. Whoever had any Carriages, sent them, several of the poor People and Banians going along with them.

In a little Time Wheat was sold seven Seers for a Rupee, but no more Rice than  $2\frac{1}{2}$  Seers, and Geer  $\frac{2}{3}$  of a Seer; during this Time the Kuzzlebash Horsemen were wont to go round about Feridabad, and other Places, marrauding twenty and thirty Coss each Way, spoiling all the Fields, and plundering all the Villages as they went, and killing the Inhabitants that made any Resistance. They gave their Horses, Camels, &c. Barley and Wheat-Straw instead of Grass, and the People of the City could have neither at any Rate, so that most of their Cattle died.

The latter End of Mohirrim*, Danish-mund Khan (whose Brother Mullah Ali Akbar was the Shah's Mullah Bashi) was, by Nadir Shah's Recommendation, raised to the Mansub of 7000, with its full Jaguir, besides the Post of Mahomed Shah's Khan Saman§; but a few Days after Nadir Shah's Departure he fell sick, and on the 14th of Ribby al Avul † departed this Life. Excepting him, Nadir Shah recommended none else to the Emperor.

On Tuesday the 3d Safer ‡, all the Omras were ordered by Nadir Shah to be present at Mahomed Shah's by five o'Clock in the Morning, where they put on forty-two Khalaets, sent thither by Nadir Shah for them. The rest of the Khalaets were different, some had five Pieces, some four, three and two, and some had only one Piece of Gold, or one Piece of Silver Stuff, according to the Rank they bore.

About eight in the Morning, Mahomed Shah, seated in a Royal Litter, with a Canopy, Umbrella, and one led Litter, with several of the Omras, went towards the General Divan, the Omras being mounted at a small Distance behind him; when they came near the General Divan, the Emperor ordered Saad o'din Khan to let none but the Head Omras, and a few of the Chief Majubdars go further. At the Door of the General Divan all the Omras alighted, and followed on Foot to the Door of the private Divan, where Nadir Shah was; there the Emperor came off his Royal Litter, and went in;

in; after they had mutually embraced, they breakfasted together, and the Omras likewise had Breakfast given them. A little after, the following Things were brought in for Mahomed Shah:

The Crown Nadir Shah put on with his own Hands, making him an Apology at the same Time. After giving him some Advice, he took Leave of him. The Substance of the Advice was as follows: ‘ In the first Place, you must seize all the Omras Jagirs, and pay each of them according to their Mansubs and Rank, with ready Money, out of the Treasury.’ You are to allow none to keep any Forces of his own,

Upon this almost all who were married in Debli sent back their Wives on finding them unwilling to leave their Native Country, only a few of the Chief Commanders and Officers, by the mildest Means and Intreaties, prevailed on some to seem contented to go; which Nadir Shab, after some Day's March, being informed of, he ordered them all to be immediately sent back.

On Saturday the 7th §, Nadir Shab moved to Shalimár, and gave positive Orders, that all the Soldiers should quit the City that Day.

100 Soldiers and Servants had deserted. The Shah ordered Scidy Folad Khan, the Cutual, to find out those People, and sent them with a Guard to the Army, and commanded several of the Nissikkchis and Rikas likewise to assist. The Cutual, after great Search, found about sixty, and sent them away with a Party of his own Horse and some Nissikkchis; they reached the Army near Serhind, where the Shah ordered all their Heads to be cut off.

In the mean Time, Scidy Folad Khan, having seized several more of those Deserters, he was going to send them also; but on hearing how the others were treated, he waited on the Emperor, and represented the Matter to him. Mahomed Shah said: 'He'll certainly kill these poor Wretches also, if they are sent; why should we be necessary to so much innocent Blood? Let them go wherever they please.'

Nadir Shah, by continual Marches, arrived near Labor, and we are informed, that he plundered and killed the People of Taniser, and several other Villages. The Occasion of which was thus: The Army constantly sending out Parties to forage, and bring Corn and other Necessaries;

Country People, who used to watch these Opportunities, attacked the Stragglers, and killed and plundered them of their Horses, and what else they had; in the Night-time also they were very troublesome, and stole whatever they could come at, which very much enraged the Shah, having lost above a thousand Mules, Camels and Kabous before he got as far as Lahor. It was reported, that Nadir Shah, having called the Zemidar of Karnal (which is the Place where he got his Victory) gave him 5000 Rupees towards peopling a Village on the same Spot he incamped, and directed him to give it the Name of Fatteh abad ||.

Some Days before he left Dehli, he sent Part of his Army before to Lahor; when they approached the Place, and Zekaria Khan was apprized thereof, he called together all the great Men, Merchants, Serafs*, and wealthy People of the City. At their Meeting it was agreed, that the Khan and they should go out of the City, and send a Message to the Commanding Officer, in these ment, could not in the least awaken out of the heavy Sleep of Security, and Lethargy of Indolence, those People, who were so much intoxicated with the Wine of Pride and Self-conceit. They all agreed in a general Ill-will to each other, and their whole Talk and Conversation was full of Envy and Detraction.

Of the Buildings that were in Part demolished, and damaged, in the Day of the general Massacre, some that suffered least, are inhabited again, and the rest remain desert; which, if not begun to be repaired before the Rains set in, will be quite destroyed.

The Inhabitants, from the Terror of this Calamity, like People possess'd, and in Fits, are quite stupified, and not yet come to themselves, and what is still more strange, (notwithstanding the Oppressions and Disgrace, the People of this Empire have met with, since Nadir Shab's Departure) the indecent Expressions, and beastly Actions of his Soldiers, are the constant Subjects of Discourse, in all Companies, related with a seeming Satisfaction and Pleasure, and by Way of Jest and Drollery; not being in the least affected with a Reflection on

Their past Disgrace and Misfortunes; but, on the contrary, seemed sorry for his going away, excepting Sirbullind Khan who, three Years ago, foresaw this Calamity, and retired from public Busines, dreading the Consequence of Affairs being managed by such Omras as then bore Sway: His being an Instrument in collecting the Peishcush was involuntary, and much contrary to his Inclinations, in which he help'd and favoured several People as much as lay in his Power, and that in so private a Manner, that they themselves knew not who assisted them: But hypocritical and ignorant Persons, who had neither Will or Power to assist those People, gave their Tongues too much Liberty in complaining of him: However, I refer this innocent Man's Character to the following Arabic Verses:

*They say for certain that God has a Son,
And say for certain the Prophet is a Magician;
Neither God nor his Prophet has escaped
The Tongues of Slanderers, and how shall I?*

When after the Battle, Nadir Shah had sent for Mahomed Shah and his Boungah to his Camp, one of his Omras represented to him, that in the Hindostan Camp there were 100,000 Horses and a great many ~~Camels~~, and as those People had, by his Clemency, received Quarter, should he order what Camels and Horses were fit for the Royal Stables to be seized for his Use, it would not be so great a Hardship upon them. To which the Shah answered : ‘ I have given these People Quarter in all Respects ; besides, the Bread of Soldiers depends on their Horses, most of them are in wretched and indigent Circumstances ; should they lose their Horses, they and their Families would be reduced to Beggary and Starving. It would be far from Humanity to treat them ill, now they are at our Mercy ; therefore don’t molest or insult them on any Account.’

Mahomed Khan Bungush had, for a long Time, been in Expectation of the Soubahdari of Alehabad, especially after Nadir Shah’s Departure ; but not finding he was likely to succeed, on the 27th of *Safer**, he made off, and went towards his own Zemidari. In his Way he plundered several Villages, and meeting the Valljarkas †, who were carrying Corn to Shahjehanabad, carried them along with him.

After some Days, Ali Hamed Khan, Ali Amjid Khan, Ali Asghur Khan, Khan Zuman Khan, Terab Ali Khan, Azem Khan, and others, in all Twenty-two Omras and Mansubdars, who had run away out of the Field of Battle and Camp, as also Mahomed Khan Bungush, who (without Leave) had retired Home, were all discharged the Service.

Nizam al Muluck and Kummir o'din Khan wrote to Mahomed Khan, that if he came back, or sent his Son to attend at Court, it was probable his Mansub and Jaguir should still be continued to him, if not, he must expect no Favour. Mahomed Khan returned for Answer: ‘ If my Request is complied with, I will come, if not, I will go on to my own Zemidari.’

*A Personal Description and Character of Nadir Shah, which I had from the Gentleman who favoured me with the Account of his Exploits

NADIR SHAH is about fifty-five Years, upwards of six Foot high, well-proportion'd, of a very robust Make and Constitution, his Complexion sanguine and inclining to be fat, but the Fatigue he undergoes prevents it; he has fine large Black-eyes and Eye-brows; and, in short, is one of the most comely Men I ever beheld. The Injury the Sun and Weather have done to his Complexion only gives him a more manly Aspect. His Voice is so uncommonly loud and strong, that he frequently, and without straining it, gives Orders to his People at above a hundred Yards Distance. He drinks Wine with Moderation, but is extremely addicted to Women, in which he affects great Variety, and yet never neglects his Business on their Account; his

Hours of Retirement among the Ladies are but few, seldom entering their Apartments before Eleven or Twelve at Night, and is up and in Public by Five in the Morning. His Diet is simple, chiefly Pillaw and plain Dishes ; and, if public Affairs require his Attendance, he neglects his Meals, and satisfies his Hunger with a few parched Pease (of which he always carries some in his Pockets) and a Draught of Water. In the Camp, or in the City, he is almost constantly in Public, and if not, he may be sent to, or spoke with by any Person. He musters, pays and cloaths his Army himself, and will not suffer any Perquisites to be taken from the Soldiers by his Officers, on any Pretence whatever. He has Monthly Accounts transmitted to him of the State of Affairs in all Parts of his Dominions, and holds a Correspondence with his several private Spies in every Place : Besides, in every Province and City there is a Person called Hum Calám, appointed to inspect into the Governor's Actions, and keep a Register of them ; no Affair of any Consequence can be transacted but in the Presence of that Officer, who, besides the Account the Governor is obliged to send Monthly, Monthly, transmits his Journal by a separate Conveyance whenever he thinks proper, without permitting the Governor to peruse it; he has no settled Salary or Gratuity for his Trouble, but is rewarded or punished just as Nadir Shah finds he deserves. This extraordinary Caution in a great Measure prevents the Governor's oppressing the People, or entering into any Conspiracies or Rebellions against him. He is extremely generous, particularly to his Soldiers, and bountifully rewards all in his Service, who behave well. He is, at the same Time, very severe and strict in his Discipline, punishing with Death those who commit a great Offence; and with the Loss of their Ears, those whose Transgressions are of a lighter Nature; he never pardons the Guilty of what Rank soever, and is highly displeased, if, after he has thoroughly examined the Affair, any Person presumes to intercede in their Behalf, before which they may give their Sentiments with Freedom.

When on a March, or in the Field, he contents himself to eat, drink, and sleep like a common Soldier, and enutes all his Officers to the same severe Discipline. He is of so hardy a Con-

a Constitution, that he has been often known, of a frosty Night to repose himself upon the Ground in the open Air, ~~wrapt~~ up in his Cloak, •with only a Saddle for his Pillow, especially when, upon an extraordinary Enterprize which required Expedition, he has been obliged to out-march his Baggage, by which Means he has fallen upon the Enemy when they least expected him. He is never happy but when in the Field, and laments the Time he is obliged to stay in a City to refresh his Troops, in which (as in all Things else) he uses the utmost Dispatch. His Meals are over in less than Half an Hour, after which he returns to Busines ; so that the Servants who attend him standing are changed three or four Times a Day. He never indulges himself in any Kind of Pleasure in the Day-time, but constantly at Sun-set retires to a private Apartment; where, unbending himself at once from Busines, he sups with three or four Favourites, and drinks a Quart, or at most three Pints of Wine, behaving all the Time in the freest and most facetious Manner. In this private Conversation no Person is allowed to mention any Thing relating to public Busines ; nor, at other Times, must they they presume, upon this Intimacy to behave with more Familiarity than their Equals. Two of his Evening-Companions happening to transgres in that Point, by taking the Liberty to advise him in Public, he immediately ordered them to be strangled, saying: ‘ Such Fools were not fit to live, who could not distinguish between Nadir Shab and Nadir Kuli.’ He has been very kind to those who please him in private Conversation, and behave with a becoming Decency and Deference in Public, where they are taken no more Notice of, nor have they any more Influence over him than others of the same Rank.

His Mother, who was living in the Year 1737, (at the Request of some who were attached to the Royal Family) intreated Nadir Shab, some Time after he had seized the King, to restore him, not doubting but his Majesty would make him sufficient Amends, by creating him Generalissimo for Life. He ask’d her ‘ whether she really thought so?’ She told him, ‘ She did.’ Upon which he smil’d and said, ‘ If I was an old Woman, perhaps I might be inclined to think so too, and desired her to give herself no Trouble about State Affairs.’

He was married to Shah Thamim's Aunt, the youngest Sister of Shah Sultan Hussein, by whom, I heard, he had one Daughter. He has several young Children by his Concubines, and two Sons by a Woman he married in his Obscurity. The Eldest, Reza Kuli Mirza, is about twenty-five Years of Age. He was trained up from his Childhood in the Army, wherefrom a Subaltern he has been gradually advanced to the Rank of a General, and appointed Vice-Roy of Perse, during his Father's Expedition to India. The second Son Nesr Allah Mirza; who is about twenty-one Years of Age, is nominal Governor of Musbad and the Province of Khorasan, having a Person to direct and manage for him.

His eldest Son, when he ranked as a Lieutenant, had only that Pay to subsist on, and in all other Stations had no more than his Commission entitled him to. His Father regarded him no more than he did the other Officers, and permitted him to associate with them, giving him to know, that if he was guilty of any Crime or Breach of Duty, he should be punished with as great Rigour as any of the rest. On his behaving well he not only promoted him, but increased his Paternal ernal Affection for him. They who knew the young Man (for I never saw him) judge he'll make full as great a Figure in the World as his Father ; having given signal Proofs of his Courage and Conduct in several Battles, and of his great Abilities in other Respects while Nadir Shah was in India. By my private Advices from thence I'm inform'd, that he govern'd the Empire with great Skill, and kept every Thing quiet and easy until his Father's Return.

Among Nadir Shah's extraordinary Faculties, his Memory is not the least to be admired, there being few Things of Moment that he ever said or did, but what he remembers ; and can readily call all the principal Officers in his numerous Army by their Names. He knows most of the private Men who have served under him any Time, and can recollect when and for what he punished and rewarded any of them. He dictates to one or two Secretaries, and gives Orders about other Affairs at the same Time, with all the Regularity and Promptness imaginable.

In Time of Action, I'm told, he is equally surprising, it being scarce credible how quick he is in discerning the Odds on either Side, and how active in succouring his Troops. If any of his General Officers give Ground without being greatly over-powered, he rides up and kills him with a Battle-ax (which he always carries in his Hand) and then gives the Command to the next in Rank. In all the Battles, Skirmishes, and Sieges he has been engaged in (altho' he generally charges at the Head of his Troops) he never received the least Wound or Scar, and yet several Horses have been shot under him, and Bullets have grazed on his Armour.

I could relate many other remarkable Things that I have seen and heard of this great Hero, whose Actions already are sufficient to convince the World, that few Ages have produced his Equal. As he has performed such Wonders when he had hardly Money or Men, what may we not expect from him now he is posses'd of so immense a Treasure? 'Tis probable he may live thirty Years longer; and in that Space of Time, if his Designs are attended with the same Success he has hitherto met with, to what Pitch of Grandeur may not a Man of his unbounded Ambition and Courage arrive at?

LUVAMEH al Asbrack fi Mokarem al Akblack. By Jāpi Mahomed ebn Affaad Duayi, and dedicated to Sultan Hossan Beg, Babadr Khan. It is a Treatise of Moral Philosophy, containing Rules and Directions for tempering the Passions and Appetites; each Moral Duty, and vicious Habit, being fully treated of under their distinct Heads.

This Book is divided into Three Sections. The First of which considers Man in Regard to his own Person singly, as a Member of Society, and what Duties are incumbent on him. In the Second, he is considered as the Head of a Family, and Rules laid down for his Management, in Regard to each of those whom he has under his immediate Care. In the Third, he is considered as Head or Ruler of a Society or Kingdom, and Directions laid down for his Government in that State. Towards the latter End are annex'd, Plato's Instructions to Aristotle; containing sundry excellent Advice; As also a Translation of the Secret of Secrets, or Aristotle's Instructions to Alexander the Great, regarding his Conduct in Perſia, which; by Order of the Khalif Ma'mūn, was translated from the Original Greek into Arabic.

A K H L A C N a f r i, A Treatise on the same Subject, and disposed in the same Order, by Nasr o'din

DESTOUR al Vizra. The whole Duty of a Vizir, with proper Rules and Directions for his Management, in Regard to all Ranks of People, from his King to the meanest Subject. It is dedicated to Emir Fakber o' din ben Hoffan.

AKHLACK al Mohoffin. By Moula Hoffan ben Ali al Kashfi, and dedicated to Sultan Hossein.

A Treatise of Ethics; much esteem'd in the East. Divided into Forty Chapters, each treating of a different Head. The whole interspersed with pleasant and improving Narratives, adapted to the Subject.

AYAR Danish. The History of which Book is thus. The ancient Brabmins of India, after a great deal of Time and Labour, compiled a Treatise, (which they called Kurtuk Dumnik) in which were inserted the choicest Treasures of Wisdom, and the perfectest Rules for governing a People. This Book they presented to their Rajahs, who kept it with the greatest Secrecy and Care. About the Time of Mahomed's Birth, or the latter End of the VIth Century, Noisbervan the Juil, who then reign'd in Perfia, discovered a great Inclination to see that Book: for which Purpose, one Burzuvia, a Physician, who had a surprising Talent in learning several Languages, particularly the Sanjkerrit, was introduced to him, as the perfectest Person to be employed to get a Copy thereof. He went to India; where, after some Years Stay, and great Trouble, he procured it. It was translated into the Pekluvi Language by him, and Buzrjumebr the Vizir. Noisbervan ever after, and all his Successors the Perfian Kings, had this Book in high Esteem, and took the greatest Care to keep it secret. At last, Abu Jaffer Mansour Zu Nikky, who was the Second Khalif of the Abassi Reign, by great Search, got a Copy thereof in the Pebluvi Language, and ordered Imâm Hosan Abdal Mokaffa, who was the most Learned of that Age, to translate it into Arabic. This Prince, ever after, made it his Guide, not only in Affairs relating to the Government, but in private Life also.

In the Year 380 of the Hegira, Sultan Mabmud Ghazi put it into Verse. And afterwards, in the Year 515, by Order of Bheram Shah ben Maffaud, that which Abdal Mokaffa had translated, was re-translated into Perse, by Abul Mala Nasser allab Mustofî; and this is that Kulila Dumna, which is now extant. As this latter had too many Arabic Verses, and obsolete Phrases in it; Molana Ali ben Hossein Vaez, at the Request of Emîr Sobeli, Keeper of the Seals to Sultan Hossein Mirza, put it into a more modern Stile, and gave it the title of Anuar Sobeli.

In the Year 1002, the Great Moghol Jalal o'din Mahammed Akbar ordered his own Secretary and Vizir, the Learned Abul Farz, to illustrate the obscure Passages, abridge the long Digressions, and put it into such a Stile as would be most familiar to all Capacities; which he accordingly did, and gave it the Name of Anuar Danish, or the Criterion of Wisdom.

ANUAR Sobeli. An Edition of the same Book, wrote in Sultan Hossein's Time.

KULILA DUMNA. The Edition wrote in 515, by Bheram Shah's Order.

AÇAR Asmît, or the Vestiges of Chastity. A Novel. In which the Author gives the Character of a virtuous chaste Woman.

TOUTI NAMA. By the famous Nakbstebi. In this Book, the whole Discourse is designed to have passed betwixt a Parrot and her Mistress, whose Husband had gone a distant Voyage. In which the artful Tricks and Ingratitude of Women are laid open by a Relation of several curious and surprising Intrigues, which the Parrot relates every Night, in order to divert the Time, and bring on the Morning, to prevent her going to her Gallant, until her Husband's Return.

DOWZD v KAZZI, or the Thief and the Judge. Being a Dispute betwixt the Kazzi of Bagdad, and a Thief, who had laid Hold of him as he was going out to his County Garden, about an Hour before Day-light. The Thief happens to prove too hard for the Kazzi; for he cites more Passages from the Koran, to justify his robbing him, than the Kazzi can well answer.

MAHAVERAT. Rules and Directions for behaving in Company; with a Relation of several famous Repartees, witty Answers, and inoffensive Jests; with a Collection of Proverbs, and the best Passages out of the most eminent Poets, on the several different Subjects that can happen in Conversation.

NEGARISTAN. By Mayîn Jouîni, in the Time of Sultan Abouseyd Babadr Khan. Dedicated to his Vizir Mahomed Rischid. It is wrote in a beautiful Stile. It contains some Hundreds of very pleasant and improving Relations, which are true
